Judge Mino Sets Week of April 5 for Execution

Convicted Duo Returned to Death Row

KINGSTON—Two convicted killers of a deputy sheriff on the Thruway near Plattekill in 1968 today were back in solitary confinement in death row at the Green Haven Correctional Facility in Stormville, Dutchess County, where they will die in the electric chair unless they win an appeal in the state's top court—the Court of Appeals.

Charles Culhane, 25, and Gerald McGovern, 26, convicted by an Ulster County Court jury of 11 men and one woman of murdering William Fitzgerald, a Westchester County deputy sheriff, during an escape try, made their last appearance Friday afternoon before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and heard the death sentence formally imposed on each of them.

Judge Mino set the week of April 5 for the execution of the pair, but an automatic appeal to the higher court will probably delay compliance with the order for possibly several months.

Mino's decision to sentence each of the two condemned men separately brought strong objections from Culhane and McGovern when they were brought to court, their hands handcuffed behind them. It was the first time since the murder trial began last Jan. 5 that the two men had not been together in court. McGovern was sentenced first. When asked by Mino if there was any reason why judgment should not be imposed, McGovern replied:

"The prosecution of this case was not in good faith. . . . I am innocent of the charge for which I have been convicted and so is Charles Culhane."

At this point McGovern commented, "It is a miscarriage of justice."

During his remarks before the death sentence was imposed on him, Culhane face Judge Mino and said, "I'm not guilty."

Turning toward Assistant District Attorneys James H. Fisher and James H. Kerr who prosecuted the case, Culhane said, "The law makes mistakes and it is not always represented by true and honest men."

McGovern and Culhane made several unsuccessful attempts during the proceedings yesterday for a continuance of the case and a delay in sentencing. They told the pair seeking to vacate the conviction on the grounds that the use of the law was "against the weight of evidence and law."

In sentencing McGovern, Mino said they had time to frame their motions, said the jury had convicted him and the same jury him, "go on and make your motions."

Motions also made by the two convicted killers seeking to have a new trial on all grounds punishment should be the death penalty. "It is not a pleasant case and a delay in sentencing, were denied by Mino, the court commented.

Culhane was sentenced after the co-defendant. He spoke more than an hour making motions asking the Court to vacate the conviction and order a new trial. Frequently as Culhane had time to frame their motions, said the jury had convicted him and the same jury him, "go on and make your motions."

Condemned Men to Youths... Value Your Life

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

"Don't get lost in life—have certain goals and value your life."

That was the advice to youths of today given by Charles Culhane, 25, and Gerald McGovern, during an interview at the county jail before they were formally sentenced to die in the electric chair by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

"It is difficult to advise the youths," Culhane said, "because there is a lot of hypocrisy in life—a lot of fraudulent values under which the youth is brought up. My experience showed me there was evidence of fraudulent value in the court."

Asked if he had his life to live again "how would he live it," McGovern replied, "I would have an understanding of human conditions and my art which reflects human conditions in life."

During the interview, McGovern commented, "In death row you are not a human being."

Asked why they didn't take the witness stand and tell their story at trial, both men said they had been advised not to by counsel. Culhane had testified at the first trial last June that ended in a hung jury.

Special

"The jurors heard both sides at that trial," McGovern observed. "I think the last jury wanted to hear both sides." He explained that after the prosecution rested its case, he and Culhane told their attorneys they wanted to take the stand to testify, but they were advised that it probably would be a mistake.

Commenting on testimony of Edward Sullivan, a prison inmate called as a prosecution witness, Culhane said, "Sullivan's testimony was a farce."

Both men referred to damaging testimony of Deputy Sheriff Joseph Singer, a chief prosecution witness, as "lies."

As the two men were interviewed, McGovern noted that at the age of 33 he would have been eligible for release from prison after serving a 10 to 20-year sentence imposed for armed robbery in Queens.

Culhane was serving a 7½ to 10-year sentence in Auburn prison at the time of the shootout near Plattekill that resulted in Fitzgerald's death. The sentence was imposed following a conviction in Westchester County for armed robbery that stemmed from a gas station holdup in Pelham Manor during which two policemen and Culhane were wounded in a shootout.

"I would have been out of prison in two or three years," Culhane told the reporter.

During the interview, Culhane produced a lengthy poem he had written while in prison. The poem, titled "Death Row" concluded with the following:

"Death row is unreal—it's a very heavy scene."

Culhane looked directly at the Court and said that neither he nor McGovern had shot and killed anyone, and that neither had attempted to escape.

Culhane, who had claimed he was an innocent bystander when the attempted escape was made on the Thruway, added that he would take his penalty like a man. "But, I can't see me dying for this."

Sheriff William B. Martin made arrangements for the transfer of the two condemned men back to death row in Green Haven late yesterday. A detail of troopers and deputy sheriffs made the transfer.

At yesterday's court session, no relatives of the two men were seen in the courtroom. McGovern's parents and sister, and Culhane's brothers and his mother had attended the trial and the penalty hearing.

U.S. Helicopters Fly In Reinforcements

South Viet Base Besieged

SAIGON (UPI)—Hundreds of North Vietnamese troops besieged a South Vietnamese base five miles inside Laos today in the first big battle of Saigon's Laos offensive, and an official report said the camp may have been overrun. Casualties were described as "immense."

During U.S. helicopter teams flew in South Vietnamese reinforcements through heavy groundfire and picked up scores of wounded men in shuttle flights from the American support base at Khe Sanh in South Vietnam's northwest corner.

One report said North Vietnam had committed a fulla relief effort today for LZ Ranger and finally succeeded this afternoon in setting down with a team of 150 South Vietnamese Ranger reinforcements.

Highly-placed Allied military sources said fighting raged through the night Friday and until dawn today and that some Communist attackers had been slain at the camp's barbed wire perimeter.

"It's a mess over there," a senior South Vietnamese commander told UPI tonight.

Five Americans were killed, 14 wounded and one reported missing in two clashes with Communist forces on the South Vietnamese side of the border near Khe Sanh. Four men of the 1st brigade, 5th Infantry Division (mechanized) were killed, seven wounded and one missing in fighting Friday seven miles west-northwest of the Khe Sanh airstrip.

South Vietnamese ground troops were pushing up heavily mined Highway 9 in an effort to reach the encircled troops.

U.S. military intelligence sources said meanwhile that as many as 12,000 North Vietnamese main force troops appear to be moving to surround a U.S.-backed South Vietnamese task force deep within the Ho Chi Minh Trail system.

U.S. military intelligence sources said elements of four North Vietnamese regiments have consolidated defenses in the mountainous region to blunt the main South Vietnamese drive into the southern panhandle of Laos. The Communists have already cut the only ground supply route—Highway 9—and intense antiaircraft fire including some from radar-controlled machine guns is taking a heavy toll of U.S. helicopters supporting the South Vietnamese.

UPI correspondent Robert E.

Sullivan reported from Khe Sanh, the forward Allied airstrip 12 miles east of the Laotian border, that an American helicopter crewman trapped at the South Vietnamese base was directing air strikes against the attackers.

More irregularities in Vietnam Post Exchanges have been alleged by Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla. Story page 3.

Sullivan said the unidentified American GI's last radio message gave the report of 65 South Vietnamese Rangers killed and 50 wounded. The GI is at "LZ Ranger," a camp 12 miles northwest of the Laotian town of Lao Bao. Government Rangers were pushing along heavily mined Highway 9 trying to reach the outpost, military sources said.

An Army medic, Pfc. James C. Costello, 20, of Bellevue, Wash., told Sullivan the stranded American had been at the South Vietnamese base since Thursday when a U.S. helicopter landed under heavy fire on a mission to remove 19 wounded South Vietnamese troops.

"We are having heavy contact," said Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the 16,000-man South Vietnamese task force that entered Laos 13 days ago in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail system over which Communist supplies are funneled into South Vietnam.

In Phnom Penh, two explosions apparently set off by terrorists ripped the back of the Thai Embassy early today. Five persons were injured although Thai Ambassador Chana Samudvanija was out of town.

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese army maintains its American-backed move into Laos is on schedule despite apparent lack of progress.

There has been little visible progress since the end of the first week. But the South Vietnamese army says this does not mean things are not going according to plan.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said "the purpose of the operation is to discover and destroy enemy material and equipment. As you know, we have reported no heavy ground contact in Laos."

Accuses Army in Son's Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department says Spec. 4 Brian P. Russell was killed in action in Southeast Asia. His mother says the 21-year-old GI was "murdered" by the carelessness of Army officials.

A letter by Mrs. Loretta Russell Sloan of Port Byron, Cayuga County, to Rep. John H. Terry, R-N.Y., has prompted an investigation into the case by the congressman.

Russell, the Army said, was killed in action last Jan. 15. "I do not believe my son died from hostile fire," his mother wrote Terry in a letter made public Friday. "I believe he was deliberately murdered by careless Army officials."

She said he was sent back into Vietnam combat after seven months of surgery and hospitalization for grenade wounds in the chest, arm and leg.

Terry said he had learned: Russell enlisted in the Army in September, 1968 for three years, was sent to Vietnam in January, 1969, and was wounded in action July 22, 1969 by an enemy grenade. He won the Bronze Star for heroism when, according to the citation, he "refused to be evacuated as he continued to fire on the advancing enemy."

Russell underwent emergency surgery and, according to his mother, a chaplain was called in when it appeared he would not pull through.

Recovering, he spent one month in an Army hospital in Japan and six months in a hospital in Fort Devens, Mass. Terry said it was his understanding if a wounded serviceman is hospitalized for more than a month, "he will not be required to return to combat and is credited with his full tour of duty."

Russell was operated on three times to remove torn cartilages from his knee and repair two holes in his left wrist "larger than a silver dollar," Terry said. Surgery in Vietnam left a "jagged scar across his chest."

After his release from the military hospital, Terry said, Russell was transferred to Ft. Hood, Tex., where he was given a desk job and was later assigned to "limited" military police duties.

Conrad K. Walter of Auburn, N.Y., described Russell as suffering from nervous disorders and said, "occasionally his leg went out under him."

False Alert On Radio Wires

WASHINGTON AP — The nation's radio stations were erroneously alerted today that a national emergency existed and that all regular broadcast activities were to halt at once.

But the alert, which moved on the radio wires of The Associated Press and United Press International at 9:32 a.m. EST, was canceled at 9:50 a.m.

A spokesman for the American Telegraph & Telephone Co., which provides leased wires to the two news services, said the Air Force at Cheyenne Mountain in Colorado had put on the wrong message tape.

Uptown UR Construction Bids Below Estimates

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency had reason to be satisfied with bids submitted on the second phase of its uptown street reconstruction Friday afternoon. The low bid came in almost $90,000 below agency estimates.

The apparent low bidder was the Felix Contracting Corp of 602 South Columbus Avenue, Mt. Vernon, at $826,939. The agency's engineers, Brinner and Larios had estimated the job at $1,016,344.

The high bid came from John Arborio, Inc. of West Cedar Street, Poughkeepsie, at $1,486,498. There were two other million-dollar bids, one from Callanan Road Improvement Company, which has the contract for the Broadway East roadwork, at $1,111,747 and one from the Halmar Construction Company of 100 Stevens Avenue, Mt. Vernon, at $1,138,077.

The Anthony Constanzi company of Kingston just missed the low bid, coming in at $935,277, less than $9,000 above the Felix company's apparent low bid.

James G. Connors, executive director of the agency, said that the agency's engineers would review the bids, to be followed by state and federal review. Awarding of contracts is expected sometime in April with work to begin shortly thereafter.

There are seven streets involved in the Stockade area of the Uptown Urban Renewal Project, including Clinton Avenue, the new Clinton Avenue spur, Green Street, Lucas Avenue, North Front Street, Converse Street and Washington Avenue.

Tannery Brook, which has been subject to flooding, will be diverted at Lucas Avenue into storm sewer pipes running under Green Street to Converse Street and eventually into the Esopus Creek.

The new Clinton Avenue spur will begin on the existing Clinton Avenue at John Street, continue to Hudela's Tailor Shop on Clinton Avenue and then swing behind the Senate House Apartments to connect with Clinton Avenue Extension, the new four-lane highway completed under Phase One of the uptown road construction program.

The seven streets will be repaved with a concrete base and asphalt topping. New street lights and traffic lights also will be installed.

Contract specifications call for a 140-day working period allowing for completion of the job in early 1972.

Church Criticism Can Be Healthy

By LOUIS CASSELLA
UPI Religion Writer

It's easy to criticize the church.

At any time and in any place, men can justly accuse the church of failing to live up to its own teachings. The charge is always correct, to some degree, because the church proclaims ideals of unselfishness, love and service which no group of human beings can perfectly achieve.

As an antidote to complacency and a spur to greater effort, criticism of the church can be a healthy thing. When it's overdone, it becomes merely destructive.

It's one thing to say the church has shortcomings, which it certainly has. It's quite a different thing to suggest—as many now are doing—that the church is obsolete, useless and expendable.

History says otherwise. From the time of Jesus until now,

Christian living has been an ongoing community which transcends all barriers of time and space. The mission of this community is two-fold, and is plainly spelled out in the Bible. It is to nurture, sustain and instruct those already included in its membership. And it is to reach out with love and humility to render whatever service it can to the rest of mankind.

It is not through great size, nor weight of numbers, nor wealth, but solely through commitment, that the church is able to stand forth among men in the high and holy role of the body of Christ.

The critics are right when they say there is much about the contemporary church that is unlovely and un-Christian. What they do not always seem to understand is that there ultimately is only one way in which the church can be reformed and strengthened—by individuals daring to become real Christians.

History of Hymns Program Theme

Prof. Richard Olsen, director of music at UCCC, and choir director at Christ The King, the church choir and the audience participating will present a program explaining the origins and development of the music of the Episcopal Church. The developments will be traced from the ancient hymns of earliest Hebrew origin before the birth of Christ to the establishing of the English church in the 17th century. Certain important metre changes will be noted from the Roman Christian chants because of language changes. The Plain Chants of the 9th century will show further change. Interest in music in form and context is markedly evident in the period of the Lutheran Reformation of the 16th century.

The program is open to the public. Refreshments will be served at a social hour after the program.

Nazarenes Host Hymnsing Rites

KINGSTON

A hymnsing sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association will be held in the Nazarene Church, Elmendorf Street, on Saturday 7:30 p.m. This is an undenominational service and the public may attend.

Representative young people will give short testimonies and the choir from the Paradise Soul Saving Station and the Nazarene Church will present special numbers. Also included in the program will be an accordion solo, a Ladies Trio, a trumpet trio and chorus. The host pastor is the Rev. Thomas Younce and the Rev. William Oliver, the hymnsing director, will lead the service.

Super-Star Opera At Bloomington

BLOOMINGTON

The United Reformed Church, Town of Rosendale, Bloomington, is scheduling an Ash Wednesday service Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary. This will be a multi-media presentation of the record album, Jesus Christ, Super-Star, through the use of stereo, the printed script, and accompanying slides.

Those who attend will read, see, and hear this new interpretation of the events leading to the arrest, trial and crucifixion of Jesus Christ. The public is invited.

Plans are being made for a special evangelistic series to be conducted at the Ellenville United Methodist Church Sunday evenings during Lent. Programs will be held Feb. 28 to April 4, 7 p.m. The informal sessions will include gospel hymn singing and a brief sermon by the Rev. Arthur S. Marshall, pastor.

Several New Allegations About Viet PX Irregularities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., says top Pentagon officials allowed a private distributor accused of wrongdoing to maintain a monopoly over magazine and newspaper sales to GIs in Vietnam. Gurney leveled the charge Friday after Fred Burgess, until recently a top official in the Post Exchange system in Vietnam repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment to avoid telling a Senate panel whether he accepted, rent free, a luxurious Saigon villa from Joe DeMarco, president of the Star Distributing Co.

Until mid-1970 Star held a monopoly on publications in Vietnam, including Pacific Stars and Stripes and Overseas Week- ly, a popular newspaper aimed at enlisted men.

Gurney, a member of the Senate's investigating subcommittee, said in a report the committee had learned that early in 1969 the firm had run $58,000 through "a large currency manipulation account" in a New York bank.

He also said the Internal Revenue Service, when asked to look into the tax status of Star distributing last fall, filed an assessment for unpaid taxes valued at more than $2 million.

In July 1969, Gurney added, John Servatius, then Star president, admitted the questioned currency transaction.

"But he refused to assist the subcommittee further . . .," Gurney said. "We also learned that no action had been taken by the military on this contract in spite of the derogatory information our hearings had uncovered."

A subsequent military investigation uncovered no evidence of criminality, he said. In three days of testimony, the subcommittee has been told the use of bribes and kickbacks were a business tool expected from a general officer stressed personnel responsible for purchasing liquor and supplies—in- tent service, that its contract would be difficult to terminate at GI clubs.

Gurney said he requested an investigation by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. A reply and demanded by the military from a general officer stressed personnel responsible for purchasing liquor and supplies—in- tent service, that its contract would be difficult to terminate at GI clubs.

Onteora Indians Clinch UCAL Hoop Crown

PINE BUSH good game. I'd say we won it UCAL," recalled the Onteora coach. "now I'd like to see us do something in the Sectionals."

OCS Led at Half

The Indians had taken a 38-26 halftime lead when the hot shooting home team got going. Pine Bush outscored Onteora 23-15 in the third period and by midway into the fourth had gone in front 61-60. But the Indians began to connect when it counted and the championship was theirs.

Guard Joe Bush had 23 points for Onteora, once again performing well on both ends of the court. Danny Brown notched 16 and Vlad Hoyt added 10.

Blake Muthig and Ken Papini scored 16 apiece for Pine Bush which finished its season 1-11. The best the Bushmen can do is finish in a tie for last should school two days this week, and Walkill lost its game at Marlboro next week.

First place Onteora is 10-1 away from one game to go, next week away from Pine Bush, he observed. "Our big goal was the added 10, most coming in the important final minutes.

Bob Wells led Marlboro with 13. George Salinovich and Charlie Jones scored 10 points each.

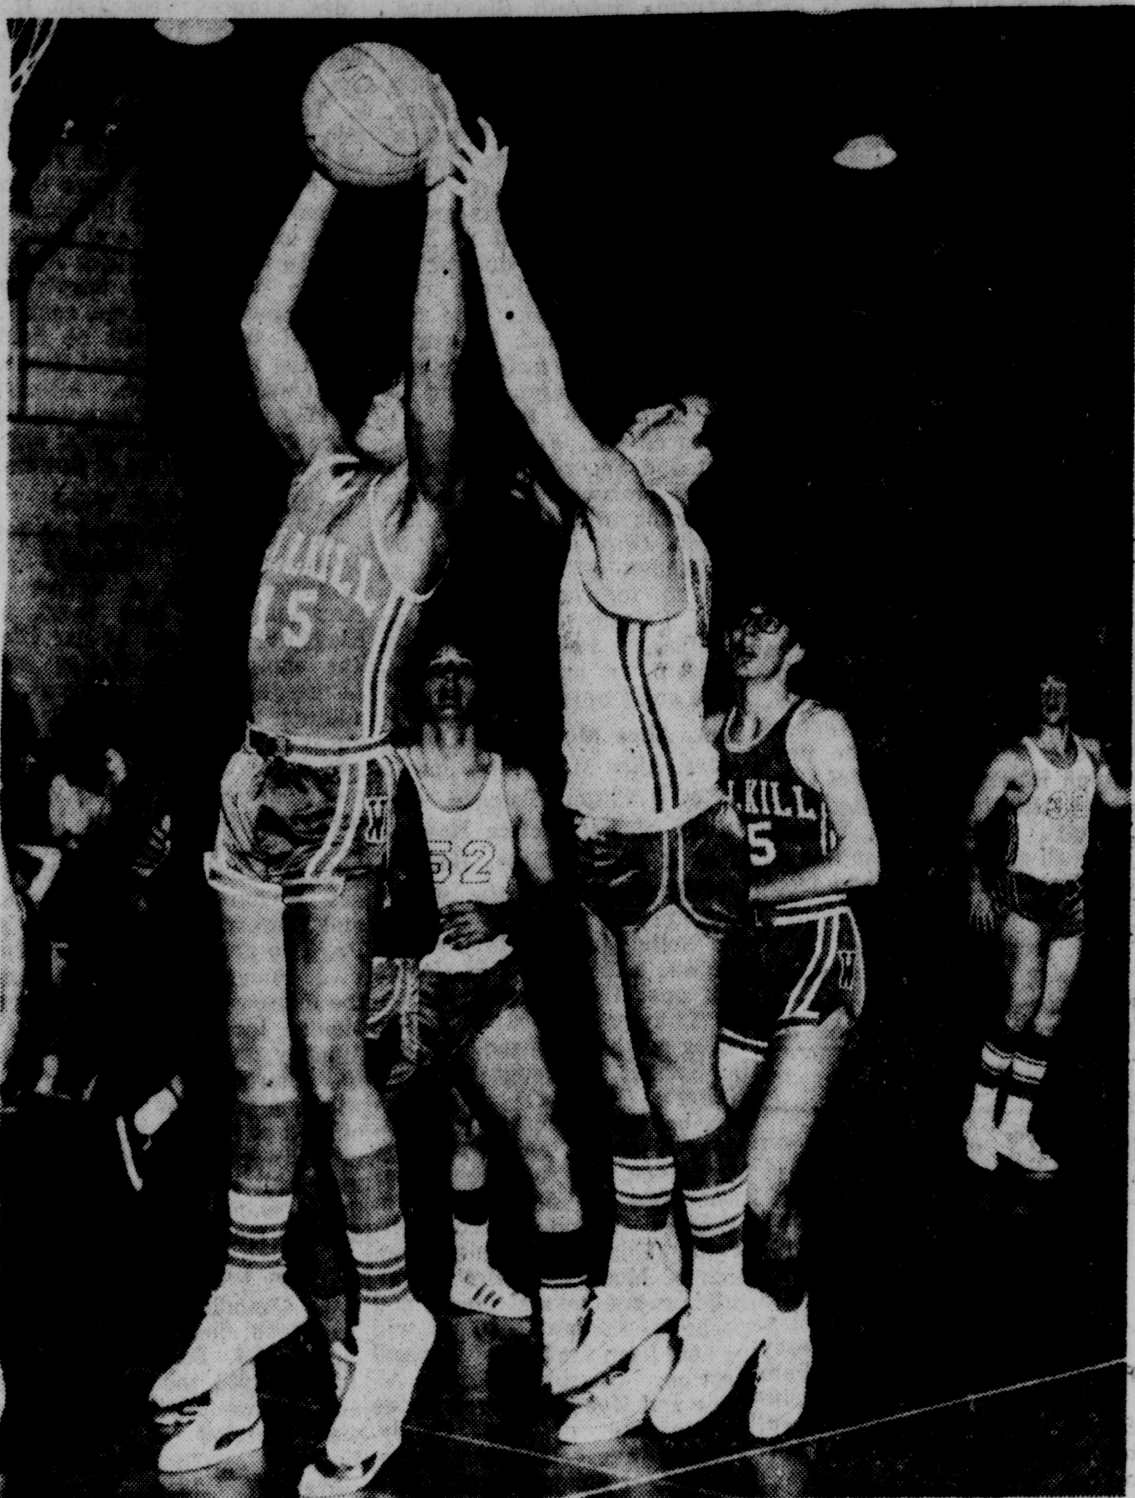

Walkill threw a scare into Rondout by erasing an 11 point deficit to come to within one going into the fourth quarter of their game in Stone Ridge. But the Ganders managed to hold off the visitors to win going away.

Bill Joyner paced Rondout, still hoping for a Section bid, with 24 points. Tom Rutigliano had 18 for the Panthers followed by UCAL scoring leader Bill McAfee with 17.

The boxscores:

Geneseo Five Defeats Hawks

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ Basketball regained a certain amount of respectability for The winners evened their record about 17 minutes at New Paltz at 10-10.

With Steve Dane, Earl Thurmer and Steve Galuski providing the spark, the Hawks traded baskets at the start of the second period and then rattled off eight in a row to cut the margin to 58-43.

However, the visitors weren't to be denied as they tallied six straight rebounds and pitched straight markers and went on out to Galuski. Galuski hit by the winners' defense in the first half, but he was really rolling them in after the intermission. The Hawk press, seemingly non-existent in the first half, came to life and began to take its toll.

Geneseo Coach Tom Pope called time out after time out to get his team back on the beam. But, the Hawks just kept coming and coming.

Thurmer hit a bucket to make the score 77-73. Geneseo with the score 77-73. Geneseo with the score 77-73. Geneseo with the score 77-73.

KHS Scores in Overtime

MIDDLETOWN Revenge may be sweet. But, sometimes it doesn't come easily.

Playing without the services of backcourt star Herman Simon, the Kingston High School cagers avenged an earlier loss to Middletown with an 87-74 overtime victory over the Mid-dies at the losers' court last night.

The Maroons outscored the Middies, 15-2, in the extra period, after the host five knotted the score, 72-all, at the buzzer ending regulation play.

According to KHS Mentor, Mike Rienzo, Simon sat out last night's tilt because of an ankle injury sustained in Tuesday's win over Amsterdam.

"I don't know how long Simon will be out for. We're figuring that it will be for at least two weeks. He's walking with the aid of a cane and it doesn't look good," he concluded.

Kingston is now 11-4 on the season and 3-2 in league action, with a non-league contest set at the Kate Walton Field House on Tuesday against the Admirals of Arlington. Newburgh, the Number Three-ranked team in New York State and the DUSO League champions come into the Field House for the final regular-season tilt on the KHS slate. Junior Varsity action will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Middletown is 3-3 in league competition.

Kingston's winning margin

Haldane Downs Foe

RED HOOK Haldane High School cagers said 'Good-bye' to host Red Hook in Dutchess County Scholastic Bi-Valley League play Friday night. But, they did it in a very uncomplimentary way.

The visiting squad topped their hosts 58-57 as Red Hook finished the 1970-71 season on a dismal note.

Red Hook will compete in the Ulster County Athletic League next season. The Raiders posted a 6-7 league mark and were 6-11 overall.

Coach Al Mallanda's quintet led by five points, 55-50, with a little less than four minutes remaining. Haldane then ran off eight markers with Dick Hosmer

Highland Edges Statesmen

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON The problem with basketball is those skimpy uniforms . . . at least that's the problem when your opposition is from Highland High School.

Every time the Highlanders strut onto the court the bulk of Ron and Perry Monroe sticks out first then you notice the lankiness of lean Harold Countryman.

Concede, give up, go home. That's what must go through the minds of more than one frightened and soon to be intimidated Highland opponent.

But not so in the case of the young, small team from Coleman High School. They didn't shudder at the sight of the Big Blue. No they played head-on with their strong visitors last night and that's why the 57-55 loss to Highland was such a shame.

Ron adding 14, ten from the line. Hastings had 19 markers for JAC. Mark Weber had 15 and a host of rebounds as did John Guess who had ten points. 48-42. Coleman's fine frosh test with Miller on Monday.

quintet knocked off MJM, 48-38. Ron Weber led the little Statesmen with 17. Coach Bob Thabet's five had an important count with Miller on Monday.

Sawyers Beat Admirals

FREEDOM PLAINS It might be hard to believe, even for the Great Ripley, but the Sawyers of Saugerties High School played another squeaker in the Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section as they defeated host Arlington, 54-52, last night.

The victory was number five in DCSL play against nine losses for the Sawyers. The Ulster County-based quintet is 6-11 overall. Saugerties closes out Central Section play for the 1970-71 season with a Wednesday afternoon tilt in Poughkeepsie against Our Lady of Lourdes.

The game was decided in the last two minutes of play—a familiar state of affairs for SHS mentor Jerry Hawkins and his charges.

Bruins Crush Seals' Squad

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Being one man down against Boston is no thrill—and neither is being one up against the ram-paging Bruins, it would seem.

The National Hockey League's high-powered Bruins, led by brilliant Bobby Orr, crushed the California Golden Seals 5-0 Friday night to open a commanding 11-point lead over runner-up New York in the East Division.

In the only other contest Philadelphia edged Vancouver 3-2 to take over third place in the tight West Division scramble.

Boston broke open the game with three goals in the second period, two of them while they held one-man advantages on power plays and the third as they played shorthanded, killing off a penalty.

Orr scored once and assisted on three of the other tallies after NHL scoring leader Phil Esposito had given the Bruins a 1-0 lead with his 49th goal just 38 seconds from the end of the first period.

Johnny Bucyk's 37th goal on a power play at 9:58. Orr's 25th less than three minutes later, also with Boston one up, and Ed Westfall's market at 15:01 as the hapless Seals had the advantage turned the game into a rout. Wayne Carleton climaxed the scoring midway in the final period.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 20, 1971

Time It Was Said

The United States has taken too much gaff from its European trading partners, who pressure this country to get its house in order when these other countries "match or even surpass the U.S. rate of inflation." It was time someone said that, and we congratulate Gottfried Haberler of Harvard and Thomas D. Willett of Cornell, two outspoken economists, who said it in a paper they prepared for the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research.

Haberler and Willett suggest that the U.S. Government adopt an attitude of "benign neglect" towards the balance of payments problem and put domestic considerations first for this country. That does not imply lack of interest in the problems of our trading partners or of the international monetary system, but an active approach to deficit problems. A change in the value of the dollar, for instance, is undesirable because "the dollar has become the world's reserve and intervention currency."

At the present time, the economists point out, there is no basic conflict for the United States between domestic and international economic policy objectives: both considerations necessitate a curbing of inflation. They include aptly, "We feel strongly that whenever a serious dilemma or conflict arises, domestic policy objectives should take precedence. For balance of payments reasons, the United States should not accept more unemployment and more retardation of growth than may be necessary on domestic grounds to bring the price level under control."

Contemplate the 'Fringes'

The withholding tax has to be the most brilliant innovation in the whole history of taxation. It's virtually painless; we never miss the money we never see except as a meaningless figure labeled "Gross Income."

For the same psychological reasons, we tend to ignore another kind of money we never see as take-home pay—the so-called fringe benefits.

If the average worker had to pay for all the benefits he now receives as part of his job, his pay check would be reduced by more than one-fourth, says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

These benefits now average 27.9 per cent of employer payrolls. In terms of dollars and cents, this means that for every $100 in wages a worker is paid, his employer provides additional benefits averaging $27.90.

The figure includes not only the employer's portion of legally required programs, such as Social Security, unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation, but a wide variety of voluntary benefits. Chief among these are life, sickness, accident and hospitalization insurance, pensions, sick leave, vacations and holidays.

In a survey of 1,115 companies last year, the chamber found that they were paying an average of 98 cents per payroll-hour for employee benefits. This represents an increase of 330 per cent in benefits over 1949 and is 19 per cent higher than the 1967 figure.

Fringe benefits are no longer "fringe," says the chamber.

BYRD'S SALARY HIKE—Now that he is the Senate Democratic Whip, stories about Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia abound. One tells of how he voted against the raise Congress voted itself two years ago. Then he used his raise to buy a $25 U.S. savings bond for every high school valedictorian in his state. Byrd had worked his way through school and knew financial meagerness at first hand.

HEPATITIS TRANSFERABLE—It used to be called by some "the yaller janders," but science has always believed that the liver disease which produces yellow jaundice was caused through unsterile hypodermic needles. Now it found that serum hepatitis can be transferred from person to person, also. No less need to avoid drug abuse shots, the main vector.

"Got Room for a Passenger?"

David Lawrence Says War Settlement Also Would Be Relief to Soviet, China

WASHINGTON—The Soviet Union and Red China have a rare opportunity to gain prestige throughout the world and win many friends by openly encouraging North Vietnam to come to terms at the peace table at Paris and bring an early settlement of the conflict in Southeast Asia.

Rumors are heard that Red China or the Soviet Union may send large numbers of soldiers and planes to strengthen North Vietnam, but this is not likely to happen for various reasons. The expenses of possible war today are so big that domestic conditions could be severely affected, and public unrest would result. Furthermore, neither the United States nor the South Vietnamese intend to invade North Vietnam. The purpose of present operations is to rid South Vietnam of the aggressors from the north. When that has been accomplished, there will be no need for incursions by air either.

Talk has arisen lately of possible resumption of conferences by American representatives with the Red Chinese at Warsaw, and the State Department indicates that it expects no intervention by Communist China in Laos despite the condemnation of allied action which has been coming from Peking.

The Soviet Union, incidentally, is preoccupied with a strengthening of its influence in many parts of the world other than Asia. The British government in its annual white paper says that the Soviets pose threats not only with respect to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but in their drive to enhance their power and influence in other countries on every continent.

Great Britain is spending 6.1 billion dollars—an increase of 636 million dollars—on defense this year. This is about five and one-half per cent of its gross national product, as compared with the nearly 10 per cent of its GNP expended by the United States for this purpose. The defense expenditures of the free governments have been increasing throughout the world.

Russia is competing with Red China in endeavoring to extend political influence among developing nations everywhere. The communists unquestionably are infiltrating many countries in the hope of acquiring power inside governments without taking the trouble to use military methods. The Soviet Union is nevertheless maintaining large and modern conventional forces and is rapidly expanding its navy and merchant marine.

But the cost of armaments nowadays is so high that American officials are convinced the Russians are interested in nuclear arms limitation and an agreement to observe the status quo in Europe. It is believed that neither Red China nor the Soviet Union is inclined to become involved anywhere in Asia or Europe in a situation which will require the use of big land forces. Despite the propaganda outbursts every now and then, which both Peking and Moscow utilize to maintain the spirit of their communist rank and file, there is little sign that either will embark on large-scale military endeavors anywhere in the world. The internal problems of both countries are pressing constantly for more and more attention, and funds are needed to take care of the home front.

While outwardly the communist regimes profess to be as determined as ever to rule the world, there are hardly any indications of another war in the offing. If the Vietnam conflict comes to an end in 1972, it will be a relief not merely to the United States but to Red China and the Soviet Union, which have been supplying North Vietnam munitions costing billions of dollars annually.

The South Vietnamese, backed by the United States, may have to send expeditions to cut off supply lines of the enemy, but there is no intention to use ground troops to carry out an invasion of North Vietnam. This should be evident to the military men in Moscow and Peking.

President Nixon has declared that American forces are not going to leave Vietnam completely, however, until American prisoners of war are released. He said also that he expects the withdrawal of American troops to be accelerated if the efforts to block the supply roads are successful. Unquestionably the President wants to be able to leave a small contingent of American armed servicemen in Vietnam together with advisors, just as has been done in Korea. But undoubtedly the bulk of the Americans will have been sent home by the end of next year provided, of course, American prisoners of war have been released.

Soviet Union Is Lagging Pitifully in Computer Race

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Another stage in the revolution has been reached. It does not, however, take the United States down the radical political path. What it does is open the way for a fantastic new scientific leap forward in this country.

We are about to enter the "fourth generation" in the field of computers. Today, of course, the computer is basic to nearly all scientific and other scholarly inquiry. Developing fresh advances here can only magnify our already immense advantage over other nations.

Since World War II, half of all the world's scientific discoveries have occurred in the United States. Not the least of the reasons is the fact we presently have some 70,000 computers, against about 6,000 each for Japan and West Germany, and not many more than 3,500 for the Soviet Union.

Even those figures do not tell the whole story, for our advantage is qualitative as well as quantitative. We have most of the more complex, sophisticated computers of the second and third generations. And now comes the fourth.

The first generation of computers, using radio-style tubes, could take 10 digit numbers and multiply them 100,000 times in four minutes. The second generation, using the more advanced transistors, could perform the same tasks in six seconds. The third, employing ceramic chips and more sophisticated circuitry, does the job in six-tenths of a second.

Some U. S. computer makers have since gone beyond to still faster models, some of which can do 15 tasks at a time.

Now, at the University of Illinois, a machine called Illiac IV, a fourth-generation development is nearing readiness. It will be composed of 64 independent computers which can thus perform that many separate computations at one time. These devices collectively will be able to carry out between 100 million and 200 million instructions per second. The time reduction between Illiac IV and the university's own second-generation computer is in the ratio of 200 to one.

If anyone imagines that such developments as this belong in the realm of dry-as-dust technology and are unrelated to human needs, he should know that the economically deficient Communist nations of eastern Europe don't see it that way. Last fall I reported the instance of a Polish Communist mayor who showed great awareness of America's staggering pre-eminence in the computer field, and candidly related communism's terrible computer lag to the kind of dead-end despair known to be gripping Iron Curtain peoples. The December food-price riots in Poland were a sign.

To that Polish mayor and countless others behind and beyond the Curtain, Moscow's pitiful effort to "psyche" the world into believing its unmanned moon dune-buggy would outdo Apollo 14's crew in technical achievement could only have sounded laughable.

The world's widely known countries know — or could guess — that our space agency uses some of the fastest, most complex computer equipment available. Russia went for the buggy bit because it hasn't solved all the problems of manned flight to the moon.

Each generational jump on the scale of computer development widens the scientific horizon and, potentially, the human horizon.

The coming Illiac IV, for example, probably will be used in vital studies of desired national food output for domestic use and export, and of the related matter of needed resources. It could be used for more advanced ecological inquiries, for resources planning, and possibly for more accurate weather forecasting beyond two days.

Those who see the computer and technology generally as the dehumanized enemy really miff it. The computer is here to serve humanity. It can be master only if we fail to exert mastery over it.

Jack Anderson Says War Escalation Unlikely; Red China Won't Send Troops

WASHINGTON — Down through the Vietnam War years, the raw facts about the fighting have gone through such a filtering and flavoring process that the public no longer trusts the official statements.

This is reflected in the large number of inquiries we receive, asking what is really happening on the battlefield. We have sought the answers from our own competent and confidential sources. Here are the most noteworthy replies:

What is the real purpose of the drive into Laos? The aim is to cut the North Vietnamese supply line. But unfortunately, most of the supplies for the present dry season had already moved down the Ho Chi Minh trail network before the South Vietnamese struck. Intelligence reports show a heavy flow of war goods down the infiltration route, during the dry months of September, October and November. But the flow had already dwindled to a trickle before the South Vietnamese could cut it off. This would indicate that the communist forces in South Vietnam and Cambodia already had received most of the supplies that had been intended for them during the dry season.

What is the risk that the Laos invasion will escalate the war? Hanoi isn't expected to mass a large force in Laos to resist the South Vietnamese operation. Allied forces, complete with waiting planes and massed artillery, are prepared to devastate any North Vietnamese force that might come into the open. The communist strategy has always been to avoid battles they might lose and wait for a chance to attack a vulnerable spot. Hanoi is more likely, therefore, to strike back elsewhere at a weak point. The best clue: communist forces already have increased the military pressure on the Royal Lao government in northern Laos.

Is Red China likely to intervene in Laos? The Red Chinese have warned that they won't remain indifferent to the South Vietnamese drive into Laos but would take "all effective measures" to aid the communist forces. In recent months, the Chinese have stepped up construction of a road that cuts across Laos almost to the Thai border.

The construction crew and guard force, which formerly had numbered no more than 3,000, has now been increased to more than 15,000. The best estimate is that the road is intended as a supply line for communist guerrillas, not an invasion route for Chinese troops. Over Chinese involvement in Indochina isn't anticipated.

Is the White House telling the truth about the absence of U.S. combat troops in Laos? American ground troops stopped at the Laotian border, although they are ready for action in Laos if they should be needed to help repel a North Vietnamese counterattack. CIA-led guerrilla bands of mountain tribesmen are also operating in southern Laos, assisting the South Vietnamese invaders. Technically, the American advisers aren't military men but civilians on the CIA payroll. The Army's special forces, however, have sent observation teams across the border.

Is President Nixon trying to win or to wind down the Vietnam War? The President is seeking to turn the war over to the South Vietnamese but to leave them strong enough to defend themselves. He also wants to protect the withdrawing American troops from a possible Asian Dunkirk. He views the drive into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and the bombing attacks upon North Vietnam as rear-guard action to reduce Hanoi's ability to mount an offensive. Meanwhile, the President has withdrawn almost all draftees from combat operations. Before the end of the year, he hopes to keep all Americans out of combat except for air and artillery support for the South Vietnamese.

Mafia Exposé
Some of the nation's most notorious racketeers, identified in federal files as Mafia bigwigs, had been living quietly in New York's fashionable Westchester County until a gravel-voiced newspaper editor straight out of "Front Page," decided to fight them his own way.

Barney Waters, editor of the Herald Statesman, knew that Costa Nostra chieftains had settled in the Yonkers area. If they could escape prosecution, he decided, at least he could expose them to their neighbors.

Waters ordered his reporters to dig into the criminal backgrounds of the hoodlums who were living in fashionable respectability in the community. Then he sent his photographers around to take pictures of their villa-style suburban homes.

For two years he battled the mobsters, winding up with a dramatic, two-week series. Even before the series began the hoods learned of it and threatened Waters' life. The Herald Statesman's general manager, Jack Shells, received a gruff telephone threat against the newspaper plant. Two .38 pistol shots blasted the newspaper's windows one night shattering glass in the advertising department.

During the two years, Waters got hundreds of threatening calls, four broken windshields and six different tire slashings. But through it all, the vinegary editor refused even to remove his name from the telephone directory. He told sympathetic friends: "I'm not going into hiding just for that bunch of punks."

Waters exposed such nationally known Cosa Nostra gangsters as Vincent Rao, "Big Pat" Pagano and Frank Borelli, who lived like peaceful suburbanites in Westchester County when they weren't engaged in the narcotics, extortion and loan-shark rackets. Borelli was even a member of Waters' club.

The Herald Statesman ran front-page stories on the mobsters, complete with detailed information on their criminal activities, their habits, their clubs, their homes. Then the staff braced for the mob to react.

Amazingly, nothing happened. Theorized Waters: "Somebody must have passed the word to lay off for fear things would get even worse for them in the paper."

Footnote: Our own Mafia sources said publicly "spooks" the big boys worse than a prosecution. Meanwhile, the Mafia is spreading into other suburban communities. Exposés, like those of the Herald Statesman, provided the subjects are indisputable members of the crime syndicate, help to mobilize community support against organized crime.

Henry J. Taylor Says Visitors to Castro's Cuba

Angela Davis, the darling of the New Left, the Black Panthers, and some tragically confused intellectuals, indicted for alleged complicity in the horrible California courthouse shooting in which four men, including the judge, were killed, went to Castro's Cuba for unrevealed talks in July, 1969. She was not dreaming about the moonlight on the Wabash.

How blind (and incredibly stupid) are we supposed to be about birds of a feather? Our own government officials and such respected compilers as the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba reveal many names of who's doing what. Grand juries have returned indictments after indictment. But perhaps a gathered-together Who's Who can help wake us up.

Omitting such notorious characters as Angela Davis, Stokely Carmichael, H. Rap Brown and fugitive Eldridge Cleaver and following some chronological order, black writer and broadcaster Robert Williams — a U.S. fugitive — reached Cuba via Canada in 1962. He left for Peking in 1967, there edited a paper circulated in South Vietnam calling on black G.I.s to murder the white G.I.s.

Williams is back here now — speechmaking at our universities. In fact it seems that the higher the bail the more such jailbirds can command as lecturers.

The Progressive Labor party is the major Peking-oriented Communist party in the United States. Leaders Jacob Rosen and Wendy Nakashima went to Cuba in 1964. That year inducted "Chicago 7" Jerry Rubin also went there, and that was the beginning of his infamous U.S. operations.

So did Robert Collier and William A. Bowe, who were arrested in New York in 1965 for plotting to blow up the Statue of Liberty and Washington Monument on instructions from Castro's Cuban mission to the United Nations.

Nine members of that U.N. mission, demanding diplomatic immunity, have been expelled from our country on charges ranging from plans to blow up New Jersey oil refineries to supplying Rap Brown with drugs to sell on our campuses.

Jordon Ford and George Mason went to Cuba in 1968. They then spearheaded the iron-fisted rampage at the San Francisco State University upheaval which closed it. Julie Nichamin went in 1968, 1969 and 1970. She met with Hanoi representatives in Havana, took urban guerrilla warfare training and organized the "Venceremos Brigades." The VB sent at least 2,000 students to Cuba.

In 1968 "art news" writer Tana de Garza, Dr. Erwin R. John of the Medical Association of New York, MIT Professor Stephen L. Chover and campus riot instigator Todd A. Gitlin also arrived. Then Castro convened that year in Havana a transparently subversive "Cultural Conference."

"Chicago 7" Dave Dellinger was a delegate. So was indicted "New York 13" Black Panther Richard Moore. So were protest songs singer Barbara Dane and New Left writer Carl Davidson. So was New York Times Magazine writer Jose A. Yglesias, a former employee of the Communist Daily Worker. This is an old problem on the Times.

A New York Times man from as long ago as 1943 later turned up working for the Communist Daily Worker in New York and London.

Saul Landau, a producer of films for the National Educational Network (NET), whose film "Fidel" glorifies Castro to our campus audiences, was a delegate. So were Ramparts magazine editor Robert Scheer, "Sing Out" magazine's Irwin Silver, Harvard Professor Mark S. Plashine and campus rioters Jennifer K. Lawson and Willy F. Ricks.

Mark Rudd led the Columbia destruction after a February-March, 1968, trip to Cuba, along with New Left leaders Tom Hayden and Ralph Featherstone. Featherstone and William ("Che") Payne were killed in March, 1970, at Bel Air, Md., when a bomb exploded in a car.

Weatherman Bernadine Dohrn went to Cuba in July, 1969, met with the Hanoi agents, staged the "Four Days of Rage" in Chicago and recently blew up the Chicago memorial to its police. She was accompanied to Havana by Diana Oughton, killed in March, 1970, making bombs in Greenwich Village along with 1969-70 Cuba visitor Red Gould.

My list runs out of space. I offer only the iceberg's visible cap. The advantages of weakening, confusing and wrecking a country from within are as old as the Trojan Horse. If we fail to see what we face, the worldwide Red cabals have a right to call Uncle Sam "Uncle Sap."

"C'more, Fred, here's a hot one! This guy wants to buy a PLAIN WHITE shirt!"

TEEN SCENE: C & W Means Bucks for Buck Owens

by LEI

These days any music fans worth their woofers know that country music has changed its image. Gone are the ten-gallon hats, banjos, western boots and sequined garters. Today's C & W star is likely to be a young man with shoulder-length hair singing protest songs, or a chick wearing a skirt that is practically a belt and singing a pop hit. It is a time of exceptions in the country field, and one of the biggest stars of all is an exception to the exceptions.

When Buck Owens had his photo taken with a mule, some people reportedly had difficulty telling one from the other. Even when the mule brayed, he was mistaken for the singer. But Buck Owens isn't braying, he's singing. All the way from the haystack to the bank.

Fellow western singers complain that Buck's shows on "Hee-Haw" (and the concept of the show) set C & W music back a half-century. With the show's promotion, Roy Clark received his first gold record. Buck has been called a show-biz reactionary, yet in the past 10 years he's seen scores of "revolutionary young country singers" shoot up the charts with one song and shoot down the elevator shaft with the next.

Today, Buck Owens has been estimated as being worth more than $5 million—a figure that many rock stars could envy. He earned it the hard way. Buck was born 41 years ago, the son of a penniless Texas sharecropper, and at the age of six, he was picking cotton in the fields beside his father at the going rate of 10 cents an hour.

Ten years later, he got out of the cotton field and in front of a microphone. He'd been teaching himself the guitar after the back-breaking hours in the fields, and to him it seemed that for a boy with little formal education, the instrument offered the best chance of getting out of the cotton field and into the gravy.

The guitar offered the chance, and Buck took it. The road up from the cotton field was not easy, and the early years saw many $3-a-night-gigs in night clubs and dusty road shows. Buck even saved and invested every penny he could, and in 1956 he bought his first radio station. Three years later he entered recording "through the back door," doing background music in the Capital Recording Studios for other musicians. His first solo record wasn't a hit, but in 1960 he recorded one of the first country hits on the pop charts—"Under Your Spell Again."

Once he was recording, demands for his tours increased. He traded in the lopsided jalopy for a special bus for him and his band. That was traded in turn for a larger bus, and now he tours in his special private jet plane, covering as many as 300,000 miles a year.

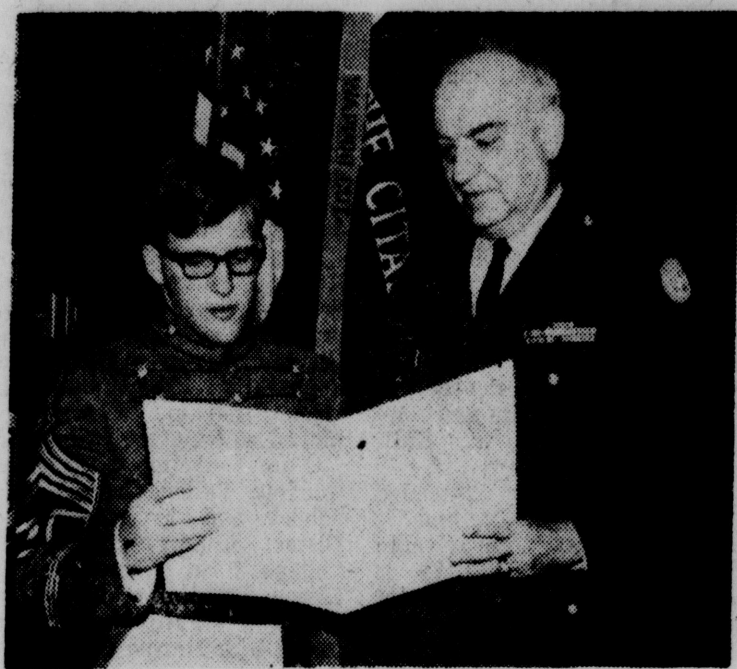

Buck now owns four radio stations, a travel agency, four ranches, a gigantic recording studio, a music publishing company, an advertising agency, a personal management company, part of a talent booking agency, and a public relations firm. In addition to all of this, his records have sold over ten million copies. In a day of "tight money" and recession, Buck's only problem is hiring enough armored trucks to haul the loot to the bank.

Much of Buck's success is due to an exceptional understanding of entertainment and finance. His appearance is pure 22-carat hayseed. He aims his appeal somewhere between the hardhat and the plowboy. As he sang in his 1963 hit (originally done by one R. Starr, a drummer whom nobody heard too much from lately) all he has to do is just act naturally.

The success of Buck Owens reflects the tremendous and unexpected power of Middle America. Buck tries to appeal to all Americans, young and old, rich or poor, country and city. On a tour of Japan, he brought down the house repeatedly, despite the fact that few in the audience understood a word he sang. This was particularly notable, since lyrics are supposed to be the most important part of country music. Buck claims that his own five children ranging in age from 13 through 21 help him to recognize the interests of the young. He sums up his recipe for success simply—to get new fans without losing the old ones—and not to change himself in search of success. "All he has to do is just act naturally..."

Buck's next objective is to uncover new talent, and hopefully help some other young men to exchange their cotton bags for money bags. For him, the sweet sound of success is a sonata for guitar, banjo, and cash register.

KHS Duo Make Merit Finals

KINGSTON Principal Dan H. Allen has announced that two Kingston High School seniors have advanced to finalist status in the 1970-71 National Merit Scholarship Program.

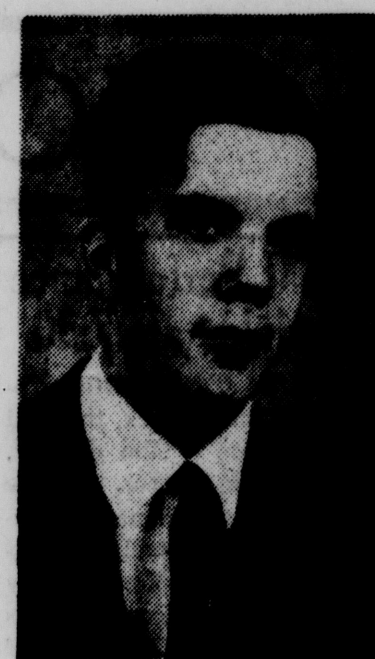

Each finalist will receive a Certificate of Merit from Allen. The winners are Leslie C. Herring of Ulster Park, and Edward Sterling of Eddyville.

Herring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Herring, has been accepted at State University College at Cortland, Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., and Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa.

At Kingston High School he is a member of Political Science Club, Ecology Society, Phrog, Astronomy Club, Chess Club. He was co-chairman of the First Earth Day observance April, 1970 and is a member of Boy Scouts.

He plans to major in science. Sterling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sterling, is president of the German Honor Society and vice president of Math Club at KHS. He is a member of band, orchestra, the math team, drama club, political science club and the yearbook staff. He is a member of the National Honor Society and is listed in Who's Who in High Schools.

Sterling has been accepted at Michigan State University and Cornell University.

LESLIE C. HERRING

EDWARD STERLING

Each finalist in the Merit Scholarship Program is considered for a scholarship and every Merit Scholar, without exception, is selected from the Finalist group. Financial need is not a factor in choosing the winners and only a limitation of funds prevents each Finalist from receiving a Merit Scholarship.

Winners are chosen by the Merit Scholarship Selection Committee, which is composed of college admission directors and secondary school guidance officials. In making their judgments, the committee members evaluate test scores, academic record, qualities of leadership, extra-curricular interests and accomplishments, and biographical information submitted by the student and his school.

The National Merit Scholarship Test will be given at Kingston High School Saturday, Feb. 27, beginning at 8:30 a.m. Juniors at Kingston High may register for the exam up until next Friday morning in the Guidance Office. Thousands of young men and women each year are awarded hundreds of thousands of dollars in scholarship aid by qualifying on the exam.

The Thomas Watson IBM Scholarship Awards for children of IBM employees are processed through this test. College bound juniors are urged to register.

congratulated by the business management division.

Louis W. Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fisher of Route 1, Kerhonkson has been named to the dean's list for the first semester of the current school year at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy.

Fisher, a senior at RPI, is majoring in chemistry with a second major in philosophy. He has been a dean's list student throughout his college career. The Kerhonkson youth is a graduate of Rondout Valley High School, Class of 1967.

Two area residents have been named to the dean's list at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa. Among 710 students achieving the honor rating for the first semester are Thomas G. Woodhouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodhouse of 48 Center Street, Ellenville and Christine Francello, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L.P. Francello of Route 4, Box 251, Saugerties.

Both honor students are juniors at Bucknell.

A Tillson girl has been accepted at the Katharine Gibbs School in New York. Laura Sue

LAURA SUE BARRINGER

Barringer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie L. Barringer of Box 902, is a graduate of Rondout Valley High School. The Gibbs school founded in 1911 is noted for training young women for executive secretarial positions.

Teen Heads MD

TV's Julie Budd will serve as teen chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

"It's great to have a bright young star like Julie joining the fight against muscular dystrophy," said Burnett, Mike Douglas and Ed Sullivan shows, and who will soon share billing with Liberace at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, will make personal appearances on behalf of MDAA against muscular dystrophy by her appearances on my telethons.

As teen chairman, Julie will symbolize the majority of today's young people—kids who are intelligent, aware, compassionate and more concerned than at any time in our history. The young singer, who has appeared recently on the Carol Burnett, Mike Douglas and Ed Sullivan shows, and who will soon share billing with Liberace at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, will make personal appearances on behalf of MDAA against muscular dystrophy by her appearances on my telethons.

Computers Used As Teaching Tools

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More and more high schools are turning to computers as classroom teaching tools, an unpublished study declares.

The American Institute for Research (AIR) here estimates such use has quadrupled since 1966, although non-users still outnumber users two to one. Rather than creating another barrier between teacher and student, computers are motivating students to learn, the study concludes.

"We don't think there is any fear the computer will make instruction impersonal," said Charles Darby, AIR research scientist.

"What may happen is the computer won't be effectively utilized. It is a tool. We are at the stage now where we are beginning to get an interest in computers in high schools. Now, the question is, how can we best use them."

AIR's study for the National Science Foundation, still in draft form, doesn't say what the best uses are. But it does say classroom use is "growing rapidly" and must be planned carefully.

The study found that 13 percent of the nation's public high schools use computers for instruction. More than 30 per cent use them for administrative purposes.

One March event of note is the Temple Youth Group Conclave slated in Kingston March 19 through 21. One hundred and fifty out of town teens will be here for the event which is being hosted by Temple Emanuel youth.

A call has gone out for housing for the visitors. Those interested in providing this service may contact Jon Eldridge or Steve Mezer.

Closer on the calendar is the bowling event being planned by the Kingston Indians for Feb. 27. Previous bowling parties have proved so successful that the activity committee is also planning a tournament for all Hudson Valley Explorer Scouts on March 20.

Teachers sometimes get so hooked on computers they leave the school for better paying jobs in industry.

Problems aside, computer use outside the classroom is expanding at an even greater pace than in the classroom.

LEOS HELP HEART — The balloons go up for the third annual benefit conducted by the Leo Club of Kingston High School for the Heart Fund. Members will be conducting the sale of balloons today and Saturday, Feb. 27 at Big Scot, Montgomery Ward and Shop Rite, Caldors, Wallace's, Britts, Kingston Shopping Plaza, McDonald's on Albany Avenue Extension and Carroll's on Broadway. Preparing for the sale are (L-R) Mark Werba, lowsky, chairman, David Scholard, Jim Broadhead and David Kwasnowski. Walter Smith Welding Supplies Inc. of Kingston contributed a helium tank and Dr. Jeremiah Sachs contributed an air compressor to make the preparations easier. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Holiday Hills Retreat For Saugerties Teens

SAUGERTIES Thirty-five youth and nine adults from the Saugerties United Methodist Church will share in a weekend retreat at Holiday Hills, Pawling, Feb. 26, 27, and 28. The youth will meet at the church on Friday and leave by chartered bus for the retreat weekend, which is part of the Junior-Senior High youth program of the church.

Theme for the weekend will be Prayer — in Depth and will involve the young people and their advisors in thinking through the meaning of prayer for daily life. The youth of the church have planned the retreat theme and have worked out the programs and discussion times.

Young people and their advisors will use the North Barn tobogganing, ice skating, hayrides, horseback riding, sledding, and hiking. The facilities building with central hot air heat, a dining area to serve 95, acre lake and 500 acres of accommodations for 44 persons in timberland and rolling hills. The dormitory style rooms, and a recreation room with fireplace, part of the Junior-Senior High ping-pong table, and lounge activity program.

The planning of the retreat weekend is under the direction of Fred Bright, president of the Junior-Senior High MYF and Martin Adult advisors and the young Hain, president of the Junior High MYF. Advisors and Co-ordinator for the youth program and retreat are Mr. and Mrs. David Bright.

Project AIM Seeks Special HS Students

KINGSTON The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Local Flotilla 10-12 Kingston has launched Project AIM of special interest to qualified high school students.

The initials stand for Academy Induction Mission through which the auxiliary is authorized to select a number of qualified high school students for a "trial visit" to the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. during the summer vacation period.

While at the academy, they will participate in a short program of regular cadet activities thus familiarizing themselves with the background of academy and service life. The aim is to bring the academy staff together with possible potential cadet material in order to encourage those who are qualified to consider the Coast Guard as a lifetime career.

Students must be in their sophomore or junior year in high school and should contact their guidance counselor for information. Further information may be obtained by contacting Flotilla 10-12 Project AIM, Officer, Clifford B. Stone Ridge.

Backseat Driver Problem?

Sometimes a backseat driver problem is nice to have. But if you're not always so lucky, maybe we can help.

By keeping a fresh copy of The Daily Freeman nicely at hand in your vehicle, you'll be able to keep most backseat drivers in their place. They'll be too busy perusing our editorial views to bug you about the view up ahead. Their attention will be on our news columns rather than your steering column... especially if the copy of The Freeman includes the Teen Page. You'll enjoy more peace of mind since you won't constantly be getting a piece of theirs.

Incidentally, when in Rome you don't necessarily do it like the Romans do. Never look back. Today's news being tomorrow's history, it's nearly always better... and safer, if you're driving... to keep your eyes on the curves up ahead.

Hot Pants For Spring

LONDON (AP) — Norman Hartnell, the British couturier to show his spring 1971 collection, warmed up his elegant salon with pair after pair of hot pants. But he said he didn't expect his royal customers to wear them.

As a designer for Queen Elizabeth II, Hartnell owns a special place in the fashion world. He raised some nervous giggles among the audience with his versions of hot pants — the shorts that have taken the bottom out of the mid-market.

Even for royal designers, it seems the thigh is the limit. "Errol Flynn," a suede hot pants suit, kicked off the Hartnell collection, closely followed by "Peter O'Toole," a hooded maxi-cloak swept over a white jumpsuit.

Hot pants invaded even that section of the collection devoted to serious, elegant fashions for the "woman over 30" — not once but three times.

First there was "Private Post," whose conventional coral midi-coat hid a pleated, printed pair of long shorts, worn with a tie-blouse and huge matching hat.

Then came "Gentleman's Relish," an even shorter, sexier pair lurking behind a bold orange coat with contrasting white color to match turn-ups and blouse.

For evening wear, "The Long and the Short of It," chiffon coat clouded in blue and green swept the floor over a stunning pair of turquoise hot pants.

length coat. In the center, Galanos presents a pants outfit which leaves the midriff bare while at right is a loose gown that opens to show the legs.

By BERNIE MOSS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Marriage is not the answer — it's the question, the beginning of being together. And how that question is answered after 15 or 20 years depends on how the couple has formed their relationship, how well their roles have been performed.

If they have worked only on the roles of husband and wife instead of also developing a friendship, there probably isn't anything holding them together after the children are gone, according to Dr. Alan Haynes, a sociology professor at the University of Utah.

"Their reason for being married is gone with the children and the marriage is likely to dissolve in a divorce court. Or, if not with an official separation, at least a physical one indicated by emotions and action," Haynes said.

"As children come along in a marriage the wife becomes more involved with them and the husband becomes more dedicated to his work. Since we're such a youth-oriented society our concentration is centered on the problems of raising children. So much so that the problems of marriage and creating friendship with the marriage partner often are neglected."

Noting that for a woman, the first major crisis after 15 or 20 years of marriage could be to lose the reason for her role that of motherhood, Haynes said. "It doesn't bother her husband so much where his interest has been directed toward his career. That crisis occurs for him when he retires. And very seldom do the two crises occur at the same time."

"He usually doesn't appreciate her trying to adjust to a new role and really isn't interested in her problem. Her crisis on her shoulders entirely."

"One thing becomes apparent to her at this time. That is how much he really doesn't need her as a person because his life is so centered on that career."

"So she goes out looking for fulfillment, something to give her life meaning. There are several ways she can do this. She can hang around her own kids until she drives them crazy, she can become involved in social or charity work, or she can find herself a lover.

Performing With Chorus

Two area students are currently performing with the Ithaca College Chorus which is recognized as one of the finest in the state, and gives many on and off campus performances during the year. They are Jean Turner of Highland, a Music Education major and a graduate of Highland High School; and Alice Vosman of Kingston, a Music major who is a graduate of Kingston High School. Both students are juniors at Ithaca.

"Since we're in a youth-oriented age, women are more and more in competition with kids—notably younger women."

"I personally think this youth-oriented culture is absurd. There is a beauty in growing older. But if you're going to play the game, you have to go by the rules."

"How well a woman can adjust to a new role probably depends on what she is willing to give up—and if nothing is holding that marriage together with the children gone then it just might be him that she gives up."

Dr. Haynes who also is teaching a class in sociology of marriage and the family at Weber State College explained that how competently a woman handles this crisis when it arrives depends on how she has diversified her interests prior to the children's leaving. If she has been able to prepare herself, she is not quite as lost when her role has to change. The same, of course, applies to a man and his retirement.

Observing that marriage is the only significant thing many people get into during their lives, he said most of us won't be remembered very long after we die except in terms of the family we raise and our marriage. "And it's amazing how many of us blow it."

"I don't see how a person can live with anyone until he learns how to live with himself. And the beautiful thing to see is the person who can live with what he is and who he is and thoroughly enjoy it."

Ladies' Night Planned

Ladies' Night at the first annual Washington's Day dinner sponsored by Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM, will take place Tuesday, Feb. 23, at 6:30 p.m. at 31 Albany Avenue, Kingston. Guest speaker will be Harry M. Thayer. Tickets will be available at the door.

TO UNMOLD SALAD

When you are unmolding a gelatin salad or dessert, dip the mold into warm, not hot, water, just to the depth of the salad or dessert. Remove quickly, shaking the mold gently to loosen.

Estee Lauder Representative Will Be at Flahs

Miss Janitt Scott, Estee Lauder's special representative, will be at Flahs on Thursday and Friday, Mar. 4-5, to demonstrate the shining ways of the "Glossamers," a shiny, shimmery brand new way to give your mouth luscious young color and a dewy gleam. Miss Scott will also show the newest looks for the eyes and skin.

"The 1971 face will gladden," says Estee Lauder, "lip colors will be deeper yet more subtle and translucent and above all they will radiate a high-intensity shine."

The Glossamers, in eight delicious new shades, come in a tiny, carry everywhere pot to be slicked on with a fingertip or in eight shades in stick form to gloss on, then glow.

Glossamers are meant to be worn alone or over other lipstick for an infinite variety of provocative shimmering looks. "Try Clear Gloss on your cheeks and around your eyes," suggests Estee Lauder, "it will give your face a beautiful luminescence, highlight your eyes and complement the sheen of your Glossamered mouth. The whole look is incandescent, the entire face should shine."

Glossamer colors, chosen to complement Spring's fashion colors are Plum, a deep rich purple, Wild Strawberry, a rose pink, Chestnut, a tawny brown, Ripe Melon, a warm glow, Candied Roses, a pale pink, Cranberry, a deep red, Tangerine, a burnt orange, and of course Clear Gloss. In stick form the shades are equally luscious. Peach Cobbler, an icy coral, Pink Caramel, a pale rosy hue, Toffee Apple, a frosted café au lait, Wild Grape, a tint of plum, Apricot, a warm, sunny orange, Currant, a deep red, Candied Pink, a faint blush, and finally Natural to slick over other colors or anywhere on the face.

The Glossamers, both pots and sticks, are now available to make every woman a radiant beauty.

Tillson Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 23 at 8 p.m. in the Tillson Fire Hall.

Plans will be discussed for the regional meeting which will be held in April.

To Meet Tuesday

At the January meeting, it was voted to donate contributions to the Ulster County Heart Fund, March of Dimes, and the Special Girl Scout Troop 134, Rosendale.

Hostesses for the Feb. 23 meeting will be Adele Theiss, Anna Myers and Mae diGiacomo.

Mini-Mites Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Mini-Mites was held recently at the home of Mrs. Allen Windelspecht, Blue Mountain, Saugerties. Hostess for the evening was Mrs. Stephen Ryan.

Mrs. Gordon Cole presented the program for the evening on floral arrangements.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, Mar. 24, at the home of Mrs. Gordon Cole. Members will be taught how to cook with wine by Mrs. Shirley McLaren.

The club welcomed Mrs. Corine Cochran as a new member. Three memberships are still available and any women in the Blue Mountain area interested in joining should contact Mrs. Gordon Cole, Saugerties.

ANNA MAE AUCHMOEDY was guest of honor recently at a luncheon in LeHerb's Restaurant in observance of her 86th birthday. A librarian at Rosendale Public Library, Mrs. Auchmoedy, better known as Annie, was the former town clerk. She received a congratulatory telegram from the Town Board of Rosendale. Approximately 34 friends and members of the Bloomingdale Home Extension Club helped make the event a memorable one.

Musical Society of Kingston

The February meeting of the Musical Society of Kingston was held recently at the home of Mrs. Amos Newcombe, president.

The following program, entitled Our Modern Era, was presented under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Stedje: Melissa Sweet, flute; Jane Tonneson, piano; Charlotte Bishop, piano; Helen Newcombe, clarinet; Cindy Jones, soprano; Rita Wood, piano; Agatha Snyder, ballet. Hostesses for the social which followed were the Mmes. Lloyd LeFever and Mrs. Amos Newcombe.

In point of fact, a super-duper film—This one's top-notch and the tension mounts to almost unbearable heights. "The McKenzie Break" is edge-of-the-seat cinema... the cast is brilliant and unbeatable... crackling good, action-packed entertainment... the excitement is sustained throughout... you'll have to see it for yourself."

Dear Abby

No 'Skinny Dipping'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Some neighbors (I'll call them Dick and Jane) have been friends of ours for almost three years. Last July we put a swimming pool in and invited Dick and Jane over for a swim. We invited another couple (also neighbors) at the same time.

Well, when Dick and Jane came over, they didn't bring any bathing suits, and when we expressed surprise, they said they enjoyed swimming in the nude and had often done so at other people's pools. The other couple brought suits, but agreed swimming in the raw might be "fun."

My wife exploded and said there would be no nude swimming at our place and they could either go home and get their suits or forget swimming in our pool. They left, and we haven't heard from them since. (The other couple stayed and swam wearing suits.) I personally am not all that hung up on nudity, and it wouldn't have bothered me one way or another, but my wife has all sorts of inhibitions. Do you think we should have let them stay and swim naked?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: No. Dick and Jane are entitled to their skinny dipping in the company of like-minded people. And your wife is entitled to her "inhibitions." Since she was the hostess, there was no reason for her to grin and "bare" it.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh at my problem. I have one big dark hair growing at the end of my nose and my mom won't let me pull it out with tweezers. She said it would grow back darker and coarser. I said I didn't care, I'd just keep pulling it out when it pay for, I fail to see why she should be hounded for a "crime" without victims. She is providing a most socially valuable service. More power to her.

PRINCETON, N. J.

DEAR K. S.: Ask your mom to take you to a doctor (preferably a dermatologist) for your complexion problem. And while you are there, ask the doctor about the hair on your nose. (I'll bet he pulls it!)

DEAR ABBY: In answering the retired librarian who sits for the two darling preschool children of a young divorcee, you said she couldn't be blamed for refusing to keep the children if indeed it turned out that the mother's business was entertaining male visitors.

While I agree, the baby sitter should know where the mother is, in case of emergency, I don't see why the mother's means of earning a living are her concern. Would she prefer that the children hang around the apartment while the mother is with her customers? If the mother is a prostitute, this well-meaning lady will not reform her, and the only result of her refusal to stay with the children may well be that they will be left with someone who is less well suited to care for them.

Remember also that the young woman may have surveyed the job market after her divorce and realized that lacking work experience or marketable skills, she would never be able to provide a decent living for her children. By choosing for "primrose path," she could at least put to use such skills as acquired during her years of marriage.

Assuming the young woman gives her customers what they

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now able to see what needs to be done if you are to eliminate mistakes and to get your affairs on a proper financial security and a greater sense of well being in the future. Take some time out to accept a chance to organize your affairs more sensibly. Be wise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think over what has been profitable and constructive in the past and plan to enter into such projects again for further gain. An associate could run in and give you a bad time. Soothe with a smile.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you find a routine matter getting on your nerves, this is the time to think of what else you can do to make life more interesting. Listen to what a dynamic person has to suggest.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of running out for fun today, get some accumulated duties around the home handled well. Planning a time to discuss important matters with mate is good. Try not to argue and all is well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid one who argues at home. Contact one who understands your ideas and will help you to commercialize on them. Loyalty to bigwigs brings fine benefits to you. Show wisdom.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get extra work done very quickly and well now with the help of others who understand it. Tackle this early before you get out socially. Then the evening becomes more enjoyable without worries.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you step out with congenials in early, there can be much fun and pleasure in store for you. This is not a good day to worry about financial affairs. The morning finds you able to handle them very well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what those at home have to suggest instead of putting those ideas you have in motion, since they are not very good right now. Not a good day for the social, either. Stick to business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget brooding at home and get out to see persons who are progressive and can make your life more successful and happy as well. Get your mind on other things besides a private anxiety you have. You can handle it well tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contacting a clever business expert or banker and getting fine ideas can help you to handle own affairs better. Not a good day to be with good friends. They are worried about own affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The planets are favorable today in almost every relationship, except with a bigwig whom you must respect where ideas are concerned. Contact persons you really like. Forget anything of an official nature.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to get out to new places and be with new acquaintances, but you must attend to business at home first. Talk over with experts what you want for the future. Follow your intuition and get right answers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you talk with good friends they will give you right advice to follow. A calculating person has an eye on your assets and does not understand your needs. Avoid this individual.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will often be tempted to give up on something too easily. Teach early the importance of perseverance despite any stumbling blocks that may be in the way, since nothing is ever achieved easily and absolutely smoothly. Ideal chart for whatever profession requires being diplomatic, and there is fine ability to organize here as well. Sports early.

Quick Quiz

Q—What type of vehicle is referred to as an ATV?
A—All terrain vehicles — mechanized contrivances that can go where no roads go.

Q—What palace is considered the finest example of Moorish art in Europe?
A—The Alhambra in Granada, Spain, built by the Moors in the 13th century.

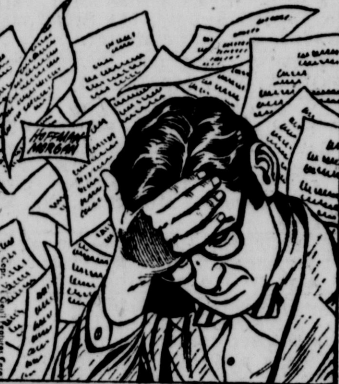

Q—Who owns the land on which Rockefeller Center in New York City stands?
A—Columbia University.

Q—Who founded the John Birch Society?
A—It was founded in 1958, by Robert Welch. Welch named the society after John M. Birch, a Baptist missionary and World War II U.S. Air Force officer.

Q—Are American cuckoos parasitic?
A—All American species of cuckoo build their own nests and rear their own young.

WHY WE SAY

RIGAMOROLE

ALLEGANCE: This word for something confused or disjointed comes from Scotland. In 1291 the King of England wanted the Scottish vessel kingdom to show allegiance. The result was the "rogan roll" or group of unrelated documents and signatures purporting to show allegiance but really a mixed lot of papers. From this came our present rigamole for something mixed up.

South looked at dummy and remarked disgustedly, "I hate three-card trump raises and there can't be any excuse for a jump raise with three trumps."

Then South proceeded to emphasize his disgust by going down at his four-spade contract. It wasn't difficult. He ruffed the second club in dummy and led the king of spades. West took his ace and led a third club. That accounted for dummy's queen and made West's pack and nine sure tricks for the defense.

South pointed out that four hearts would make easily and that they would have reached that nice contract if only North had shown his hearts.

We have to agree that four hearts does make, but in general no one wants to prefer a 4-3 fit to a 5-3 fit and we doubt that the two-heart call by North at his second turn would have landed the partnership in any suit except spades.

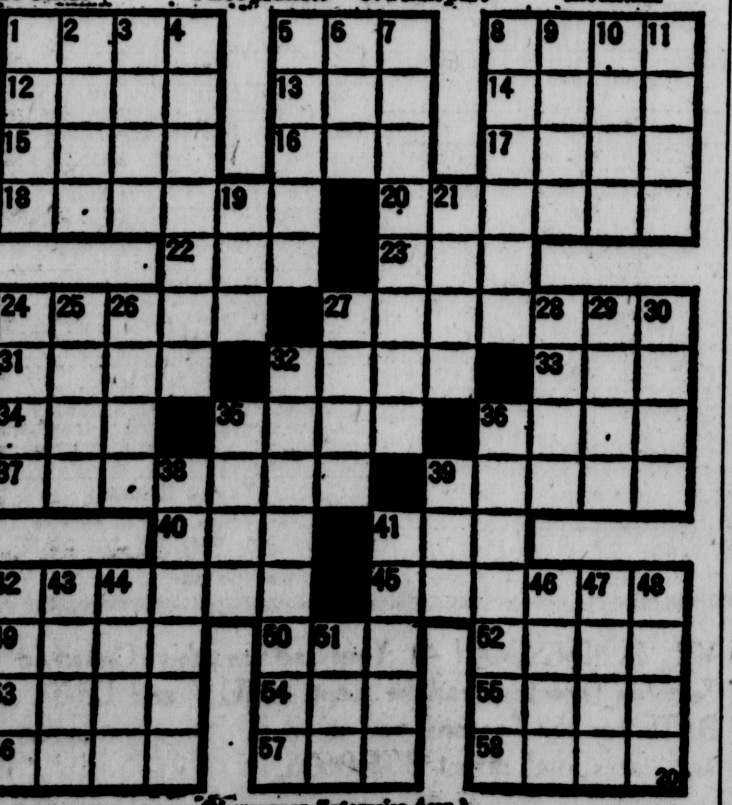

The interesting thing about this hand is that four spades should make. All South has to do is see that a spade play at trick three will almost surely be fatal and that he has a far better line of play.

South should forget about trumps and go after diamonds. That suit breaks 3-3 and allows him to discard his third club, after which he can play a trump with safety. West will still take his ace and lead a third club, but South will ruff in his hand with a low trump instead of dummy with the queen.

What if the third diamond gets ruffed? South won't be any worse off and will still be home if the man with the three trumps ruffs. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

THE PROPOSED Central Broadway Mall at this point in planning appears to have a lot going for it. The project should provide another three or four million dollars to the city's tax base and at the same time save a business area that has been rapidly deteriorating for the past few years.

The presentation the Central Broadway Businessmen held on Wednesday night was a first class affair. Plenty to eat and drink and just about anyone who counted was there at the Casablanca Restaurant. They even had name tags for everyone, indicating that attendance was by invitation only.

The architect, Jerome Kerner, wasn't all that specific, but still gave a pretty good general idea of what was being planned.

It was almost as if the Broadway Mall was an accomplished fact. Fact sheets were handed out to members of the press which even went so far as to include favorable quotes from various aldermen.

There were color sketches showing the plaza from three views, aerial, inside and outside. It didn't quite look like the Colonial City, but then, it's a thing of the future.

About the only area where anyone seemed the least bit hesitant was when questions were raised as to the fate of the 70 or so people living within the proposed project bounds.

The questioning on that subject started rather obtusely and was at first directed at Mayor Frank Koenig. The mayor was asked whether this new four million dollar project would be worth more than the 60 or so parcels now on the site, considering that they were in a code enforcement area and would presumably be upgraded from their current (in some cases) run down status.

The mayor answered emphatically that there was no chance that the present property could be worth more than what the plaza would be worth.

The questioning then got around to the point: What was going to happen to all those people after their homes were demolished? Koenig held out the dual possibility that the developer might build an apartment house on site for the displaced residents or that they might be moved into the UDC apartments in Broadway East.

Eddie Arace allowed that it was a problem, but a problem that could be solved.

It all began to sound very familiar. The city needs new construction . . . don't worry about the people there . . . we'll take care of them . . . somehow . . . progress is the most important . . .

We wonder how many city officials remember the spring of 1967 in Broadway East. The federal bulldozer was knocking down people's homes faster than new homes could be found for them.

But that was progress. Move 'em out. Knock 'em down. Cover it over. Grow some grass.

There's been lots of progress in Broadway East. We've got a half finished million dollar city hall. A $300,000 firehouse going up. A one-lane macadam strip going up the hill. It's called Broadway. The people are all gone. The problems of 1967 went somewhere else.

The Central Broadway Mall can work. We hope it does work. But let's not lose sight of priorities. The people in the area are not "a problem." They are a responsibility and they should come first.

One Broadway East is enough.

CITY BITS—Lt. Guernsey Burger's platoon tagged 120 cars with parking tickets on Monday, among them, a car with the license plates FRK-7. Yep. That's the mayor's car.

Koenig, we hear, paid the tab, although he could have legitimately ducked it, if he wished. The mayor is the mayor 24 hours a day and as such is ALWAYS on official business.

Koenig, now basking in the Florida sunshine, took the ticket in stride we hear. There is no truth to the rumors that Lt. Guernsey Burger is now Buck Private Burger patrolling a beat in Broadway East, alone . . . on foot.

THE DEMOCRATS may have come up with a candidate to run in the First Ward, now that John Heitzman, the incumbent, is moving out.

John Coffey, it is said, will make another run. He went against John Machione in the old 12th Ward in 1965 and was defeated. However, Coffey supporters point out that their man won handily in his own district, the first, but lost the race in Machione's. The first district of the old 12th is now pretty much the First Ward.

At the other end of the scale, Frank Reis, the former Broadway liquor dealer, is being talked up in the 13th Ward as an opponent on the Democratic ticket against Bernie Sims.

Frank should have the qualifications, he's up on city affairs, but there are a number of Democratic leaders still simmering over Frank's bringing Jim Tyrrell, the GOP mayoral candidate, to the Democratic picnic in the summer of 1969.

WE WERE giving Emilio Primo the business about bowling in the recent city tournament the other night at the Central Broadway Businessmen's affair.

Primo, the Eighth Ward Democrat, started out with 614 in the team event (whoa!) came back with 535 in the doubles (he's got a shot!) but faded to 460 in the singles (good grief!) He went in with a 165 average.

P.S. Primo won $25 which was exactly $25 more than this heckling reporter.

Speaking of (women) bowlers, Hilda Krum, along with Judge John Sterely (the judge doesn't bowl) will be honored by the Young Republicans next Saturday night (the 27th) at the Governor Clinton.

It should be a good time. They had a big crowd last year.

ONE FOR THE BIRDS—Harry Thayer, we are now informed, has been given the green light to go out and sterilize the county's pigeon population with a product called Ornitol.

We know for a fact that Harry has this thing about pigeons . . . and the pigeons have this thing about Harry. He's been bombed from on high a few times while strolling the uptown area looking, no doubt, for potholes in the streets.

We wish Harry the best of luck against the pigeons, however, let's draw the line at that.

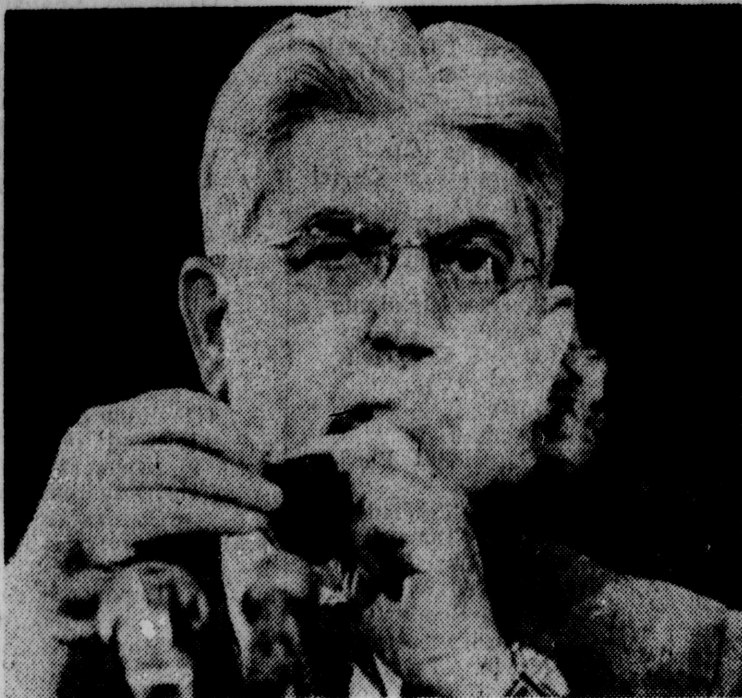

That drug, Ornitol, also sterilizes bluejays and pheasants, according to The Freeman article we read. Both are beautiful and all too rare birds and none, to our knowledge, have ever offended Thayer, or anyone else for that matter in any way.

There must be a better way than this Ornitol scheme. That's really cutting off your nose to spite your face.

We suggest they spend the $1,200 allotted for the Ornitol program on a net, sledge hammer, sneakers and muzzles for Thayer, the latter so he can quietly sneak up on the unwary pigeons.

Note: to the woman from Colonial Gardens who called up on Monday and complained that we never say anything about Brendon Alexander, the former Sixth Ward GOP candidate. It's true. We haven't. We hadn't seen Brandy in about a year. We saw him last week. He looks fine. He's selling real estate.

Says Federal Reserve Board Chairman Inflation Emergency Still Possible

DR. ARTHUR F. BURNS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is congratulating itself about the smallest monthly inflation figure in nearly four years, but the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board says the nation may yet face an inflation emergency.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Friday that consumer prices rose only one-tenth of 1 per cent last month, compared with five-tenths of 1 per cent the month before and 5.5 per cent for all of 1970.

Because prices normally go down in January, the seasonally adjusted increase for last month is three-tenths of 1 per cent, or a yearly rate of 3.6 per cent.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, sent President Nixon a memo calling the report encouraging.

"You predicted a good reading for January," he reminded Nixon. "It occurred. Welcome to the Forecasters Club!"

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally told the Senate Appropriations Committee he was heartened by the report. "I think there is ample reason to be optimistic," he said. "There's no question we have the resources to have a really vibrant economy . . ."

At the same time, however, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns told the Senate-House economic committee that an economic emergency might lie ahead unless the White House takes stronger action, such as instituting a wage-price review board.

Asked if he would go so far as to recommend a wage-price freeze, Burns said, "I'm a conservative economist. The thought of controls, except in time of war or national emergency, just frightens me . . . "But, I'm also a realist. I think we may be approaching an emergency in our country. I must confess that at times in the dead of night, I find myself thinking about a wage-price freeze. But when I arise and have a cup of coffee, I forget it."

Burns also said the central bank will expand money and credit at a moderate pace this year, not as fast as urged by the White House. And he called Nixon's forecast of a 9 per cent jump in production for 1971 optimistic and higher than his own staff's estimate.

Friday's price figures mean it cost $19.20 to buy what $100 did in 1967, and $138.60 to buy what $100 did in 1957-59. The 1967 comparison year was adopted with this report.

Unions Hot Over Wage Freeze Idea

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A high-level team of Nixon administration officials meets with construction union leaders today to try to reach agreement on a White House proposal to curb the climb in wages and costs in their industry.

"We're going to have to do something," Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson said of President Nixon's insistence on slowing last year's 18 per cent rise in construction wages this year.

even if it takes a wage-price freeze. However, before meeting with the executive council of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department, Hodgson said the White House still wants a "consensus" from construction unions and industry officials on the best way to stabilize costs. But at this point he added, "what we are going to do is wholly uncertain."

Informants indicated a government attempt to get the union leaders to agree to participate in some kind of government-labor-industry national construction stabilization board with power to review any proposed wage or price hikes before they go into effect, a plan that would probably require Congressional action.

However, sources emphasized this was only one of several possible alternatives that might be worked out short of a federal wage-price freeze.

Hodgson discussed the matter Friday with the executive council of the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO, which is holding its annual midwinter meeting.

The meeting over construction wages came amid a flurry of AFL-CIO statements blaming Nixon for most of the past three years, total 16 per cent rise in living costs that wiped out wage gains of most American workers.

"The buying power of the weekly after-tax earnings of the average nonsupervisory worker in private nonfarm employment — about 48 million — declined in 1970 for the second consecutive year," said one statement quoting labor department statistics. The AFL-CIO Executive Council also issued statements demanding an increase in the present $1.60 federal minimum wage to $2 or more, and urged a $2 billion federal program to speed up public works construction in areas of high unemployment.

The nation's unemployment rate is 6 per cent, highest in a decade, and in construction is nearly 12 per cent.

In another statement, the labor council said the federal

Davis-Bacon Act that sets wage levels on government construction projects should not be tampered with — an apparent reference to hints that Nixon might suspend the law to lower wage costs. Such a White House move would have the effect of shifting much federal construction work to lower-paid non-union workers.

"Bidding on federal contracts by unscrupulous employers would result in a competitive undermining of fair wages and labor standards" without Davis-Bacon's protection, the labor council said.

Arabs Move to Dump Arafat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Palestine Liberation Army moved openly today to unseat Yasir Arafat as leader of the Palestinian resistance movement, touching off the biggest internal power struggle in the guerrillas' history.

Brig. Abdulrazzak Yahya, PLA commander-in-chief, made public demands that Arafat's ruling Central Committee be dissolved and that all guerrilla organizations be brought under the PLA.

Yahya's demands came in notes published in Damascus and Beirut today, a few hours before the 27-man Central Committee was to begin meetings in the Syrian capital on the growing momentum towards a peaceful settlement in the Middle East.

President Tito of Yugoslavia is returning to Belgrade today from Cairo with the blessing of Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev for his one-man Middle East peace mission. He is expected to inform President Nixon immediately of the results of his week of discussions with Egyptian leaders. Tito was reported also planning more exchanges with the leaders of Britain, France and the Soviet Union and is sending his foreign minister, Mirko Tivbas, to Moscow.

An active peace-seeker in the region since the 1967 war, Tito has been in touch with the Big Four leaders in recent weeks and ended his talks Friday night with President Anwar Sadat in Cairo's Kubbeh Palace.

Elsewhere on the diplomatic front, Egypt was reported to have told U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring in New York that it is prepared to guarantee that Egyptian territory would not be used as a base for military action against a neighboring state if peace is reached with Israel. That would rule out attacks from Egypt by Palestinians trying to sabotage an agreement.

Egypt responded Friday to an Israeli demand for face-to-face negotiations by declaring it would make no more concessions to get peace, and Information Minister Israel Galili of Israel said his country would give no "prior commitments" on returning captured Arab territory before negotiations.

Manson Makes Point On Who's the Leader

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—With one gesture, Charles Manson demonstrated his power over the three young women convicted with him of the seven Tate-LaBianca murders.

While Patricia Krenwinkel was on the stand during Friday's session of the penalty phase of the trial, Manson suddenly raised his left arm and pointed his index finger straight upwards toward the ceiling.

Miss Krenwinkel, 23, stared at him, halting her testimony. Then, slowly, she raised her left arm and index finger in the same gesture. Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten followed Manson's lead.

For 35 minutes, until Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older called a recess, Manson kept his arm extended. The girls copied him, occasionally lowering their arms when the strain became too much.

During her testimony, Miss Krenwinkel was asked by Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, if there was some reason she felt no remorse for the slayings.

"I am satisfied with myself," she said. "I am willing to face my own death because that night (the night of the murders) was my fault. I killed myself. I know that everything that was done was done."

"To kill someone is to kill yourself. We are all one. We all run on the same thoughts, God's thoughts."

Kanarek asked her why she used her knife on Miss Folger. "I don't understand what reason is. Everything is done because it is done. I don't know the why, wherefore or reason for anything. It just was."

Asked about having taken LSD more than 100 times, Miss Krenwinkel said:

"I have taken so much acid that I am acid. I've never come down. It opens you up to what you are and then you are that." Miss Van Houten followed Miss Krenwinkel to the stand and she also was expected to confess her part in the murders while trying to clear Manson. However, she never got to that point in her testimony before the trial was recessed for the weekend.

Suspect Signs Confession In Murder of Dallas Deputies

DALLAS (UPI)—Rene Adolfo Guzman, a scar-faced ex-convict said to be a drug addict and an imitator of Al Capone, put his signature to a confession Friday night, admitting he and another man arrested with him shot three deputy sheriffs to death beside a river bank five days ago.

Guzman, 33, and Leonardo Ramos Lopez, 25, were captured early Friday when 60 lawmen raided a shabby three-room flat in East Dallas, guided by a spotlight from a hovering helicopter.

Lopez was scheduled to be interrogated today by Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones' men.

Both Lopez and Guzman were identified as the killers by Deputy A.D. McCurley, who escaped in the confusion and darkness last Monday while three of his colleagues were being killed and another officer wounded in an execution-style shooting on the barren bottomlands of the Trinity River near downtown Dallas.

In his confession, Guzman said he and Lopez disarmed three officers who came to arrest them in a house. A short time later two more deputies knocked on the door, and they too were disarmed and tied up, Guzman said.

He said he and Lopez loaded the bound lawmen in a car and drove them to the river bottom. He said one of the officers got his hands free and took a swing at Guzman. Guzman, a pistol in each hand, fired until all the captives fell in the darkness, the statement said. Then he said he and Lopez jumped in the car and drove away.

Killed were Dallas County Deputies Samuel Garcia Infante and William Don Reese and Ellis County Deputy A. J. Robertson. The officers had tried to arrest the suspects on burglary charges.

A relative said Guzman "thinks he's Al Capone."

Guzman's brother, Moises Zuniga Guzman, 35, was arrested the night of the slayings. McCurley said the elder Guzman did not take part in the shootings but did nothing to stop the killings. He was charged with murder.

'Dark' Opening Thursday With Veterans as Leads

SAM TESORIERO, Saugerties teacher and star and featured performer in Coach House and Woodstock Playhouse productions, will be seen in "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs" as Rubin Flood. He's been cast as a husband who feels he must cover up his insecurity with bravado.

Two veteran Coach House Players performers are holding down the lead roles in the local theater group's soon-to-be-presented winter production. The Players have picked the William Inge hit, "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," to follow their earlier and highly successful season's opener, "The Sound of Music."

Nina Werbalowsky will co-star as Cora Flood, a wife and mother who "discovers" her family undergoing stresses and conflicts of which she had previously been unaware. And Sam

Tesoriero will be seen as Rubin Flood, her vigorously masculine husband, who covers up his insecurity with bravado.

Nina Werbalowsky is a native of New York City, but considers Far Rockaway her home town. She holds a degree in journalism from Syracuse University and, while in Far Rockaway, appeared in such theatrical offerings as "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "All My Sons," and "Kind Lady." Since joining Coach House, she has performed to acclaim in "Enter Laughing," "Finian's Rainbow," and "The Great Sebastians." She also starred in the plum role of Adelaide in the musical,

"Guys and Dolls." A resident of the Town of Ulster, she is the wife of an attorney and the mother of three sons.

Starred as Sky

Born in Oswego, Sam Tesoriero holds both a B.S. and M.S. degree; teaches Social Studies in the Saugerties Central School. Coach House audiences have seen him in starring roles in "Guys and Dolls" (as gambler Sky Masterson), and in "Hatful of Rain." He has also appeared in the Players' productions of "The Great Sebastians," "Paint Your Wagon," "The Pajama Game," and "Finian's Rainbow." On the stage of the NINA WERBALOWSKY, a veteran of four Coach House productions, makes it live by playing Cora Flood in the William Inge drama, opening for three nights beginning Feb. 25. She has the role of Cora Flood, a wife and mother who "discovers" the inner conflict within her family.

Woodstock Playhouse, he was cast as a foreign potentate in "Don't Drink the Water."

From the caliber and credits of these two experienced players, it's no wonder so much enthusiasm has been generated both at Coach House and in the community about "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs." Better plan now to line up for tickets for the show when they go on sale at the J. Watson Bailey School on the evenings of Feb. 22, 23 and 24 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

And, of course, plan to be in your seat by curtain time (8:30 p.m.) when "Dark" is presented at J. Watson Bailey on the evenings of Feb. 25, 26 and 27.

Dream Come True With a Hip Harp

By LEI

A light from above illuminates the intense face of the girl playing the harp. It shimmers for a moment on her hair and then dances ahead of her fingers through the harp strings, followed by the airy tinkle of the notes. Against the drape of the backdrop, the scene presents a loving tableau from a Renaissance painting. All that's missing are the halo and wings.

Somehow, a wrong note finds it sway into the melody. The girl with the harp breaks the spell cast by the imagination by sticking out her tongue, going cross-eyed, and muttering something quite un-angelic and contemporary. Besides, how could an angel be wearing flared-bottom jeans and a turtle-neck sweater, and be laying down country and western music? adapted the traditional to the contemporary, so such an angel wouldn't be surprising there. However, the girl with the harp is not an astral manifestation, but a very-much-alive continuation of Woodstock's creative heritage, her name is Eve Otto, and for over a year the unlikely music from her harp has provided unusual background (and foreground) music in the town's espresso cafes.

Troubador Variety

Like Woodstock itself (where centuries-old buildings house shops selling suede fringe and satin jumpsuits), Eve Otto has successfully accomplished the blending of the ancient with the modern. Her harp is not the massive concert harp associated with chamber music, overstuffed ladies, and Harpo Marx. Eve plays the smaller and far more simple troubador harp. If it is less complicated in design, the small harp makes up for it in difficulty in tuning. "Small" is only a relative term when referring to a harp — Eve's still takes up a sizable chunk of stage and requires more than a little hassle to move it from place to place, since it weighs more than forty pounds.

The harp is believed by historians to be the oldest stringed instrument, and troubador harps such as Eve's are an early form of the instrument. However, when Eve plays it, the sound is as contemporary as the current hit list — even if the music of today develops a certain baroque charm on its trip through the harp strings. Since there is no popular music (and very little classical music) written for the harp, Eve has had to master her entire repertoire by ear.

In addition to her adaptations of popular music, Eve plays her own compositions, which now make up over half of the material she plays. Her own material is based on improvisations which develop as she plays. The harp is traditionally a difficult instrument to master, but Eve, who is self-taught on the harp, seems perfectly at ease with it. This particularly outstanding, since she has only been playing the harp for three years.

Probably one reason why Eve Otto and her harp seem so in tune, is because the instrument is literally, a childhood dream come true. Eve remembers vividly a dream she had as a little girl of being in a room filled with harps of all sizes, and of trying them all.

The dream was almost forgotten, waiting in her sub-conscious until Eve found her first real harp, in Woodstock. Although she was born not too far from Woodstock, in Lake George, 27 years ago, Eve didn't visit the art colony until three years ago, when friends from New York City introduced her to the town. It was in her Woodstock home that Eve found the battered troubador harp that was a tangible relic of her half-forgotten dream.

She had always been interested in music, but she had been unable to find an instrument that was satisfying to her. She soon abandoned the guitar and decided she hated the clarinet. Not until she began to play the second-hand harp did she find the response she had been looking for.

She bought the harp and still has it, although it can't be played, because of a crack in the wood. Her current harp had to be specially ordered from a firm in Chicago. She wanted it in a special natural finish — for a refreshingly practical reason. She didn't want the scratches to show. "I bang it around a lot," she says irrever-antly, and her troubador harp, never be duplicated exactly, a is having to live up to its name, since she really is becoming a traveling musician. Harp beside her in her footsore automobile. Eve logs more miles than any medieval bard, she searches out opportunities to display her unique music. Lately, she's been in much demand for school assembly programs in the area.

Not only is the harp enjoyable by itself, but it has a unique ability to enhance other instruments in a group. Since Woodstock is the home of many of the most outstanding music-makers of the decade, Eve has had the opportunity to join jam sessions with such well-known talents as Billy Faier. She has played in groups with such diverse instruments as Hawaiian guitars, conga drums, mandolins, flutes, electric guitars, recorders, and banjos. She will probably soon be a part of a regular group, as well as a solo player. In the works, too, some special programming for radio station WBAI in Manhattan.

Since many of Eve's most outstanding performances are purely improvisational and can never be duplicated exactly, a recording of them would have particular value. While several of her group performances have been taped and filmed, none are planned for commercial release at this time. According to current plans, Eve's harp will be dubbed into a Billy Mitchell record now being cut, and she is planning on making her first solo record in the near future. That could finance a few small luxuries which she can't afford now — such as tires with some rubber on them for her car.

Natives of Woodstock have become understandably blasé about seeing their next-door neighbors, schoolmates, and fellow coffee-drinkers become overnight sensations. Eve Otto, with her talent, originality, and youth, seems a likely candidate to join the list, one of the lucky few for whom a dream came true.

Ski Movie Time For The Sound of Winter

An example of contemporary film technique at its best will play here in Kingston soon. Next Saturday, Feb. 27 at 8 p.m., "THE SOUND OF WINTER," a new ski action film produced by the world's leading ski cinematographer, Warren Miller, settles in for a one-time only showing at Kingston High School auditorium.

Miller's films have long been an entertainment must for skiers all across the country. To ski fans, there's a ski film season just as there is an actual ski season. But there's a much broader basis on interest in the work of Warren Miller. "THE SOUND OF WINTER" contains all the elements of cinema as it was originally conceived. Miller's highly mobile camera units capture the art of winter sport. His skiing techniques relay heavily on montages and the "I was there" feeling. And his juxtaposition of the very funny and the very serious bring the audience through the many moods of the big ski world.

Small wonder this fantastic color film geared for exciting family fun has been playing to SRO audiences everywhere. For "THE SOUND OF WINTER" is many things. It's silently falling snow in Mt. Zao, Japan, and the whir of a helicopter as you are despoised high in the Alps above Zermatt. It's dangling from a slender piece of rope on the face of a 100 foot high block of ice. For the sound of winter has many tones, whether it's waist deep powder in Sun Valley, or the hard rock of a pop band in an Aspen night.

There's unbelievable comedy on skis, too, featuring the Polish

National Ski Team. And there's the howl of jet propelled snowmobiles in a $50,000 winner take all marathon. Winter fun is distilled in Sugarbush, Courchevel, Mt. Zao, Waikiki, Sun Valley, Vail and Aspen.

So regardless of what the weatherman or the calendar may have to say about the matter, this year's ski season in Ulster County will begin at 8 p.m. on Feb. 27 at Kingston High Auditorium.

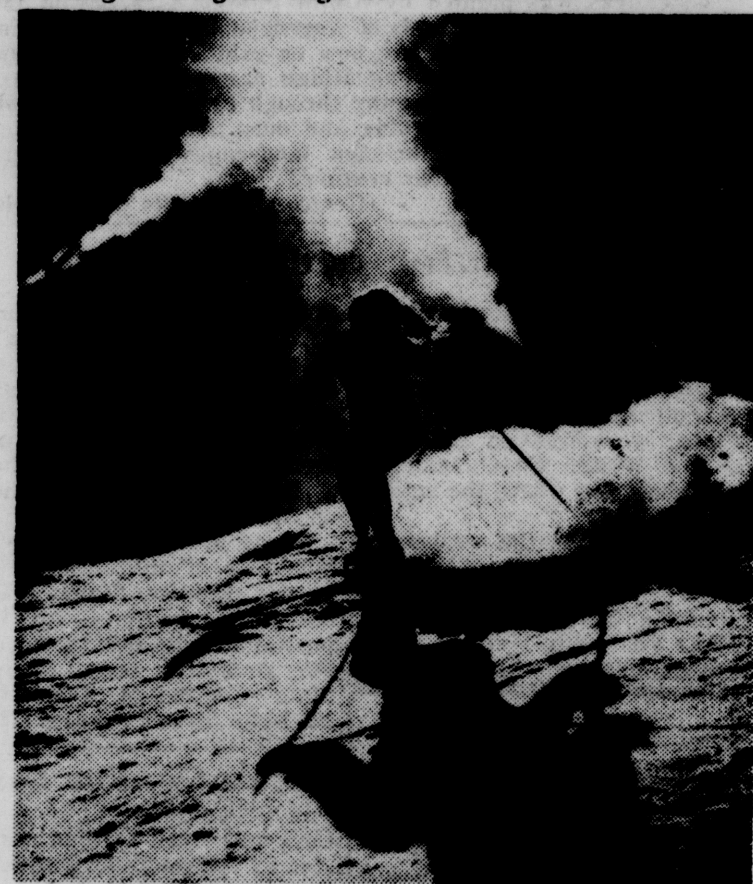

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters is sponsoring the film locally and tickets, priced at $2 each, are on sale at various locations. Pick up a set for your family right away at: Central Fire Station, East O'Reilly Street; Cornell Fire Station, Abeel Street; Wiltwyck Fire Station, Fair Street; Potter Brothers; Spada's Sport Shop; Frank's Sport Shop; Abram's Music; and Ski Minni of New Paltz.

With full musical score and humorous narration on sound track, this winter sport film is a potpourri of highspeed action, awe inspiring scenery and comedy on skis filmed at top resorts in the U.S. and abroad. And the world's great and near great skiers are among the ski stars.

You won't want to miss the blizzards and sun, or the crashes and fun. And you won't want to miss a chance at one of the more than 30 door prizes, including seasonal passes to such area slopes as Phoenicia, Ski Minni, Mohonk, Hunter Ski Bowl, Catskill, Concord, Highmount, and many other in Vermont and elsewhere. snowmobiling at Hidden Valley and other places are also included on the prize list.

THE SOUND OF WINTER . . . and the beauty, too, are portrayed in Warren Miller's annual 90-minute ski film set for screening at Kingston High School auditorium on Feb. 27.

OF MANY THINGS is "The Sound of Winter" made. In this case it's a beautiful girl, powder snow, sunshine and Sun Valley.

Olympics Event: Music and Batons

Two of Dutchess County's excellent playing, has also perfected new routines for the Estelle and Alfonso Olympics. Drum Corps enthusiasts will not be the only ones pleased at the March 14 event. Additional entertainment will appeal to the entire family. Champion baton twirler Bonnie Herbert, ar. Estelle and Alfonso instructor, will offer an unusual demonstration, followed by more than 70 young twirlers in a special dance-twirl exhibition. The actual Olympic competition will include six of these twirlers who scored highest in the preliminaries and who will compete before John C. Handy, official judge of the National Baton Twirling Association. He'll score them for gold, silver and bronze medals. An acrobatic competition will be scored by leading physical educators as six gymnastic contenders compete for Olympic medals also.

The event, a benefit for the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company, will begin at 2 p.m. sharp.

PORTRAIT of a "Man From Dutchess County," this oil on canvas was painted by Ammi Phillips (1787-88) in 1865. The portrait was the basis of American folk art, and various examples of such work are now on exhibit at Ulster County Community College's Stone Ridge campus through March 4. Open to the public Monday through Friday during regular college hours, this intriguing and most decorative American Folk Art show also includes landscapes and seascapes, mostly of the early 19th century.

The Guarnerius he had been given by Julliard for the contest was stolen while he was backstage. The violin was recovered the next day in an Eighth Avenue pawnshop, where the thief had pawned it for $15.

The program includes Mozart's "Impresario" Overture, Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, "Eroica", and Paganini's Concerto No. 1 for Violin, with Perlman as soloist. Edward Simons, Associate Conductor of the Philharmonic, will be conducting.

Perlman, whose arrival on the American concert scene was described by the Chicago Daily News as "the happiest event in fiddling since the generation that produced Heifetz, Oistrakh and Milstein," is just 26 years old. He is the musical product of two countries, Israel and the United States.

Born in Tel-Aviv in 1945, he came to the U.S. in 1958 under the patronage of Ed Sullivan. After two television appearances, Perlman decided to remain in the U.S. to continue violin and other studies at Julliard with Ivan Galamian and Dorothy Delay.

CARRIE SNODGRESS and Richard Benjamin are a young married couple who drift apart as his pompous, self-centered attitudes and demands become too much for her in "Diary of a Mad Housewife." Frank Langella is the third leg of the triangle in the modern story of a wife's infidelity. The film is now on screen at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema.

JACK NICHOLSON tangles with the law in fight scene from "Five Easy Pieces." Nicholson, who scored in "Easy Rider," portrays a man who is not easily satisfied; turns from a career as a dedicated concert pianist to the nomadic life of a roustabout. The movie is now in its second week at Kingston's Community Theatre.

MOVIES

Tora! Tora! Tora!

This film, now showing at Poughkeepsie's Bardavon Theatre, cost $20-million to make; is an exacting re-creation of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Where it differs from most World War II movies is that it allows both sides to tell their story.

The Japanese scenes, in Japanese with English subtitles, alternate with scenes depicting what happened here as the attack was being conceived and carried out.

The movie seems to be a plea for preparedness, based on extensive research into films, communiques, log books and diaries of the war years—culled from both this country and Japan.

It's a grandiose film and it does authentically recreate events of historic military significance. Dec. 7, 1941 lives again as a "day of infamy" and the detonator of World War II. What this new film adds is the message that the infamy was double-edged—a compound tragedy of omission and commission.

But while "Tora! Tora! Tora!" boasts spectacular photography and some insight into the deceptions and blunders that lead down to Dec. 7, it somehow manages to disappoint as high drama. In the first half, the Americans seem to be blundering boobs and the Japanese smart operators. And, in the second half, the noise of demolition drowns out all else as airplanes and ships go up in flames.

Five Easy Pieces

Jack Nicholson is the highly gifted actor and star of this film, now in its second week at Kingston's Community. Cast as an oil rigger who seems to spend most of his time drinking beer and putting down his girl, he turns in a superlative performance as the moodiest roustabout ever seen on screen.

But before one begins to wonder at his mean, callous approach to life in the oil fields and on the bowling alleys, he is revealed as the scion of a highly talented musical family. Seems he never agreed with his autocratic father that he was all that good as a concert pianist—and chucked it all for the life of a supergypsy.

It's a fascinating film and, in addition to Nicholson, boasts well-honed performances by Karen Black as his yammering waitress girlfriend; Lois Smith as his rabbit recitalist sister; and Helena Kallianiotis as a hitchhiker with a grudge against "man."

Richly and resourcefully directed and acted, "Pieces" is totally contemporary in message; manages to be haunting and abrasive at one and the same time.

The Owl and The Pussycat

Now in its third week at Kingston's Mayfair is this basically two-character movie, based on a Broadway comedy of the 1960's.

Action focuses on a romance between an intellectual (George Segal) and an unsuccessful prostitute who's all heart (Barbra Streisand).

In her first non-singing role, Miss Streisand emerges as actress as well as song-seller. Dramatic talent, she has. Her role calls for brass and toughness and she demonstrates an exterior of both. But she also does well in those scenes where she puts aside her "madel" and bit actress career and her prostitute by force circumstance role. She is more than capable of switching from tawdry street urchin to a woman of sharp mind and tender heart—an honest gal behind a loud mouth and bravura behavior.

George Segal is fine, too, in his comedic approach to his role of bookstore clerk with literary aspirations—a shy, in-

PRESENTING A PLAY midway through Black History week at Kingston's Black Arts Theatre, the cast of boys from Highland Training School gets last minute directions from their instructor, Arthur Randolph. Black History Week B-E-A-U-T-I-F-U-L

Much effort went into the celebration of Black History Week locally, and the combined efforts of highly active organizations in Ellenville, Kingston, Highland and Woodstock made the week an unqualified success.

Here in Kingston the center of activity was the Black Arts Theatre, newly arrived on Wurts Street. Kingston High School's Afro-American Club took over the theatre for one night; demonstrated a multiple variety of youthful talents. On another evening, the theatre's stage was given over to a visiting cast of even more youthful performers. Boys from the Highland Training School presented a play specially conceived for the week.

Exchange programs involving Ellenville organizations and members of the Black Arts Theatre contributed to the exploration of black history and heritage in both communities. A trio of movies augmented the week's programming — focusing either on little known black history or problems and directions of the recent past or near future.

Music, too, was an integral part of the week — and a program presented by the massed choirs of the black churches of Kingston was a highlight to be remembered.

The unique cultural contributions of blacks was emphasized, too, in the new winter program of the Woodstock Artists Association, where two stimulating events were offered. Black History Week there was celebrated by two evenings featuring visitors from New York City, arranged through the efforts of Woodstock playwright Holly Beye.

The first event at the art colony gallery was a lively lecture on the New York Public Library's Schomburg Collection by Edward Taylor, chairman of the Harlem Cultural Commission and trustee of the Committee to Save the Schomburg Collection.

With appealing personality, humorous insight and a thorough knowledge of his subject, Taylor provided a thoughtful and invigorating evening. The Schomburg Collection, a reference and research library devoted to black life and history, is considered the most important center in the world for the study of blacks. International in scope, it covers every phase of black activity, wherever blacks have lived in significant numbers.

The Collection's materials range from early rarities to current happenings, from Mississippi to Timbuctoo. Scholars from African nations travel to Harlem to use the Schomburg's valuable reference materials since holdings in their own countries cannot meet its quality.

Taylor also emphasized the contributions of black artists, detailed African art objects owned by the library, delved into the prospects and prejudices surrounding black artists, and spoke of major exhibits which have recently featured their works. His audience included residents of Kingston and Woodstock, as well as members of the library staff of State University College, New Paltz.

Ending the week at Woodstock was an evening of black poetry, also presented at the Artists Association Gallery. Youthful actress Anna Horsford read works by 25 black women poets. Reading with sure intuition, she made her audience "soul brothers" for the duration of the program. Among her selections were poems by Nikki Giovanni, Sonia Sanchez, Jackie Early, and others.

Often seen on stage and TV, Miss Horsford is assistant producer of Channel 13's "Soul" series; recently appeared on the program with several of the women poets she read from in Woodstock. That show will be repeated shortly; will be viewed as a "must" for those who heard Miss Horsford's too brief but moving reading, which captured her Woodstock audience.

For Ulster County, then, Black History Week proved a memorable occasion; established a well planned and finely conceived precedent that will hopefully be followed and surpassed in the

A leftover virus couldn't have slipped into Kingston Hospital Auxiliary's Gay Nineties Ball one recent Saturday night . . . not even if it was decked out in fringe, disguised as Clara Bow, and came down the Charleston. There just wasn't room!

About 500 flappers and spouses floated into Satin Ribbon Saloon (alias Gov. Clinton's Garden Lounge) to "skol" each other with cups of sparkling champagne; and, 'tho neither bootleg nor bathtub-brewed punch bowl was busy-as-beehive.

Guests strolled down Gaslight Alley (alias sunporch), lined with trees 'n lights, paused at Cupid Fountain to toss coins to swell Auxiliary's coffers, and arrived at Crystal Room, transformed fantastically by Fred Seeger and crew to sumptuous "Crimson Palace."

Audocrats Barbershop Quartet put guests in the mood as did Howard Rust Orchestra — all decked out in red suspenders and straw hats. When Frivolous Sal's Dixielanders arrived, gals in 19th and 20th century maxis knelt or sat on floor—campfire style—and sang-a-long to Daisy, Dixie, Strawberry Blonde. Those who didn't know words . . . clapped; the talented did both. Chris Larios, brave gent that he is, led group of dancers, snake-style, through the crowds.

Gala drew such large portion of morticians (who know how to "live" it up), it was enough to make one break out. Always pluggin' his trade, Jim Gilpatrick (with Joan) joked at Coroner Arthur Chipp's table: "Remember folks, I give green stamps on St. Patrick's Day!" Frank Simpson was constantly being paged, as was Dr. Harder — usually, it's other way 'round.

Tony Triulzi kept wiping perspiration from forehead; can't figure out why . . . Howard Rust was doin' all the work. In fact, Howard played so hard, his hat "exploded." Bank president Jim Norton's daughter was havin' hard time keepin' up with dad. Snacks were served in inverted straw hats and by midnight, one prominent gal — who must've misinterpreted — was chewin' mouthful of straw!

Those findin' Larry Gahan and Duke Locke too busy at bar in lobby, strolled into Gov. Tavern to be served toute de suite by Duke's nephew, Vic. Spotted Lucille Ingarrà with block-long cigarette holder. Lucille was havin' such hard time tryin' to get cigarettes to stay put, she was ready to kick habit. One teetotaler in Tavern was apologizin' for drinkin' nothin' stronger than coke, but complimentin' Vic who has-a-way-with-ice-cube.

Mickey Duncan with Jim looked great in maroon and feathers. Other shebas and sheiks included Betty and Rol and Augustine, the Dick Fredenbergs, Lil and John Salapatis, Audria and John Warren, the John Sanglyns, the Abe Streifers, Audrey and Stan London, the Bob O'Reillys, Jean and Art Davis, the Jansen Fowlers, John and Grace McCullough, the Joe Ohnikians, Dick Kalish, Wilbur Peters, Skip Kugelmans, and "The Doctors."

Ward Ingalshe and Ham Fish looked tres virile in their tuxedos. Mrs. Edward Coppo represented Benedictine Auxiliary. Mrs. George Rifenburg, Kingston Hospital Auxiliary's "first lady," danced and danced. One gal remarked she sang so much her feet hurt; might say she put her heart and "sole" into it! UGH!!

From Ellenville Hospital was Administrator Ewald Bors-Koefoed, a 10-pin buff of some renown who just bowled 300, and Mrs. Arthur Chipp, wife of coroner and newly elected president of Auxiliary.

Powder room chitchat confirmed our convictions — Ulster Countyites dig "dressed to kill" shindigs and are cryin' for more of same. (Oh, wow, are they ever!) Society night owls are hootin' yet 'bout hospital ball and if more-groups don't take cue from recent local "dress-up" successes, it'll be 10 lashes with laces from orthopedic corset. Yessireebob!

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

FAUGH-A-BALLAGH!

I hope I've got that spelled right . . . my Irish Consultant (who wants to remain anonymous) told me how to say it: "Fog Ah Bah-lah" . . . but wasn't exactly sure how to spell it. As for what it means, I think a freehand translation might be: "Clear the Way . . . The Irish Are Coming!"

A timely reminder, indeed . . . because on Tuesday, March 16th, ROBERTO'S is planning a "Paddy's Eve" Party that just might wind up watching the sunrise on St. Patrick's Day. I can't spell out the menu yet, but Roberto is working on making it a meal that would charm the chin-whiskers off'n a leprechaun. Needless to say, it probably will include Green Pasta.

On the entertainment side, I can tell you that we've signed up that popular accordion-playing warbler, Howard Rust . . . make that O'Rust, for the occasion. More news next week!

FOR THE RECORD . . .

Once in a while I'm accused of being behind time, of having my dates wrong in reporting parties and happenings at ROBERTO'S. It's not that I'm wrong . . . it's that I'm always writing the "colyum" a week in advance; so if I mention that the "Smooth Sailing Organ Club" had their First Annual Reunion here Sunday, I don't mean Sunday, Feb. 13th, but Sunday, February 7th.

By the time I get done counting up for the week (and either patting my tummy or holding my head!) it's Tuesday, and we have to catch up with all the things we should have done Monday. We're closed on Wednesday, so I can't get down to the "fact sheets" you so kindly write out for me, until Thursday. By the time I figure out what you wrote, and check on names and spelling, it's too late to expect the paper to set up a "colyum" and have it ready for Saturday. So that's why I'm always talking about two weeks ago!

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

Speaking about that "Smooth Sailing Organ Club," unless they're kidding me that tunelessly-titled organization had its "First Annual Dinner" at Roberto's on Sunday, Feb. 7th. Those attending the "FAD" were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Short, of Highland; Mr. and Mrs. William Harcourt, of Ulster Park; Mr. and Mrs. George Wiegert and Mr. and Mrs. Al Relyea, both couples of Kingston. Their comment was "Harmonious time had by all; enjoyed the organ music; food and drinks tres uh-huh!"  We were honored by a visit from Mrs. B. Coniglio's niece from Rome, Italy. Sister Mary Annunziata O.S.M., Administrator of St. Juliana School in Rome. In addition to Mrs. Coniglio and Sister Annunziata, the guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bob Coreoran and their children, Cathy and Robbie; Eileen Dempsey; Mrs. Frank Dempsey; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Griggs and children, Ricky, Nancy, and Lee; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, Jr.; Mrs. Charles Perry; Cookie Perry; Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Prusack.  Another heartwarming Sunday Occasion was the 80th Birthday Party for Mrs. John McGowan, of Port Ewen. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGowan, Mary and Esther McGowan, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rathjen, all of Port Ewen, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Diamond and sons of Kingston. Many Happy Returns, Mrs. McGowan!  A double-celebration table marked a happy Dinner for two popular couples: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coisson, of Ulster Park, celebrating their 12th Anniversary, and Dee and Mike (Capri) Palumbo celebrating news of a blessed event to look forward to. Mike, the expert mixologist at the "Capri," took the night off to wish me Good Luck at Roberto's (first chance he's had to make it!); he also notes that "Joe" Amato looks as good as ever. The most gratifying comment of all (coming from an expert): "The food, the mood and the service . . . superb."  Friday, Feb. 5th saw a Double Farewell Party by ladies of the Telephone Company Business Office . . . for Kathy Anderson, who is leaving in anticipation of a blessed event, and Marsha Chadwick, who is transferring to Massachusetts. Wishing fond farewells to Kathy and Marsha were: Sherry Batekman, Millie Bouton, Rose Farrell, Judy Haber, Kathy Hart, Mary Ann Heybruck, Mary Lyons, Dee McDonald, Eleanor Maschovsky, Kathy Sorenson, Betty Stalker, Marion Teague, Mary Jane Van Steenburgh, and Phyllis Whitaker.  Lots of other Celebrative Parties: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Amato celebrating an Anniversary; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lawton celebrating their 18th; Mr. and Mrs. John Guido entertaining friends. Also Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Guido doing ditto. (Where do all those Guidos come from, I wonder?)  And talking about a reason for celebrating, the latest one is from Aaron E. Klein, accompanied by Mrs. Klein and Alderman (shouldn't that be Alderwoman?) Florence Shea Ludlow. The reason: Celebrating the end of a cold wave and the approach of a storm. (This was on Feb. 4th, remember!) Comment: "The food, the libations and the company were unsurpassed; look forward to more . . . soon!"

SIGNING OFF . . .

with a reminder that the Saturday Night Soiree is still going strong . . . with Augie, Sharon, Tony "Red" Amato and "Papa Joe" all in good form, and Mark Garrison performing nobly at the Hammond. From here on in to St. Patrick's day they'll probably be practicing up on some Wearin' of the Green songs. Wait for Ed Shannon fellas! Happy to report that "The Team" is going as strong as ever with their mid-afternoon sessions. Also happy to report that I'm happy to be able to report! More of same next week.

Intellectual bookworm, who finds himself attracted to a woman of the streets in spite of himself.

If you accept it all as light entertainment for a cold winter's night, "Owl and Pussycat" will suffice. Personally, we prefer Barbra singing and, if we're going to enjoy romance on screen, we prefer something more intriguing than a schnook and a lady of the evening.

Diary of A Mad Housewife

The subject of the modern marriage of the young professional man and the young educated woman raised to be the ideal wife is explored in this film, now on screen at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. The man is Richard Benjamin, the woman is Carrie Snodgrass, and the third leg of the triangle is the woman's lover, Frank Langella.

Filmed entirely in New York City, it offers a whirlwind photographic tour of Manhattan's leading department stores, art galleries, artists' lofts and gourmet restaurants.

It also offers an acidly humorous look (albeit via many a nude scene) at a young establishment marriage that's slipping badly because there is no basic understanding of each other's human needs and rights on the part of man and wife.

As the husband, Benjamin is the perfect snob — a man who buys paintings by young artists "people are talking about," and a man with a penchant for French wines and lavish parties. As his harried and mad (outraged as differentiated from looney) wife, newcomer Snodgrass proves herself a fine actress. As the young writer with whom she is catapulted into a love affair, Langella is another newcomer to be reckoned with as he portrays a talented, selfish and sadistic wife stealer.

"Diary" is strong stuff and not for everyone. But, for some, it will prove unusually provocative.

Catch-22

This major movie, brought in at a cost of $22-million, is the current attraction at the Orpheum in Saugerties. Anyone who has read the brilliantly lunatic novel on which it is based knows full well that it's about a U.S. bomber squadron in Italy during World War II.

Transferred to film, it's been updated; emerges as a whale of a movie. Few more meaningful satires have ever been committed to celluloid. Alan Arkin is superb as Capt. Youssarian, the perfectly dressed soldier who finds himself impaled on the insanity of war and struggling to escape.

He is aided and abetted by a cast of characters including winners, losers, opportunists and survivors. Separately and together, they are nervous, frightened, often profane and sometimes pathetic. Almost all are a little crazy. And some are just very young.

"Catch-22" is great movie making with great performances by such talented actors as Anthony Perkins, Richard Benjamin, Art Garfunkel, Jon Voight, Bob Newhart, Orson Welles, Martin Balsam and Jack Gilford. With cold, savage, chilling comedy, it inspires laughter along with an understanding realization about the sickness of war and the times.

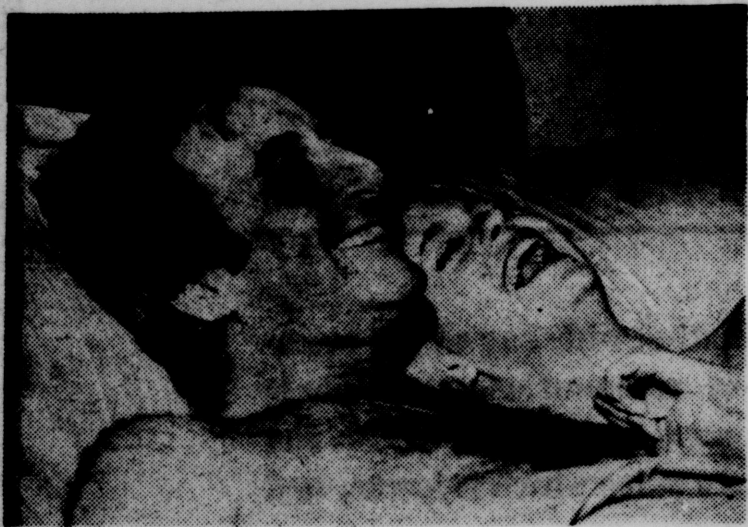

There's A Girl In My Soup

At the Rosendale Theatre now is this film — another movie that should be accepted simply as light entertainment for a winter's evening. Nothing too sensational, it's a comedy about romance.

This time around, the man is over 40 and a celebrity of sorts as a gourmet chef on television. As played by Peter Sellers, he's none too virile. The girl in his life is a very young girl, and Goldie Hawn in this role makes of her a brainless blonde.

The laughs are sprinkled fairly liberally throughout. But we prefer to see Sellers in something more worthy of his considerable talents . . . and Miss Hawn as something other than the mindless zany she always seems to be. And as with "Owl and the Pussycat," when we want to enjoy romance on the screen, we prefer something more intriguing than an aging male past his prime and a dumb dodo too active for his dwindling energies.

(By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

PETER SELLERS and Goldie Hawn in one of their friendlier moments during an up-and-down romance in "There's a Girl in My Soup." The comedy, an attempt at satirizing an involvement between an older man and a zany young blonde, is the current attraction at Rosendale Theatre.

Landscapes by Lucile Stephens at New Paltz

Not too long ago a long and active teaching career at Poughkeepsie High School ended for Miss Lucile Stephens, 101 Huguenot Street, New Paltz. Casting about for activities to keep her occupied during her new leisure, she investigated the local New York State program of Adult Education.

Literature, Philosophy and Ceramics caught her eye and though the latter sounded most interesting, she eventually elected to take a class in painting because of its more convenient scheduling. The choice proved a happy one for her and she continued in the art class for several years.

Later, when that course was discontinued, she became involved in the art classes organized by the New Paltz Art Association, held on the State University campus there and taught by a member of the college's Art Division.

Over the years, Miss Stephens — who originally looked upon painting as a retirement hobby — developed into a landscape artist. Now she is being honored with a one-woman show at the New Paltz Savings Bank. The exhibit is scheduled to open Sunday, Feb. 28 from 2 to 5 p.m. with a tea and reception, to which the public is invited.

Following the opening, the show will run through March 26 with viewing invited during regular banking hours: 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Fridays.

'All in Your Mime'

It's a return engagement of the talented mime team of JACK AND GRACIELA to the McKenna Theatre on the State University College campus at New Paltz.

As a result of their well received October performance there, they were invited to stay on as artists in residence. In the months since, enthusiastic response sent them on an extensive tour of area schools and colleges and to Manhattan for a special engagement.

Anyone who saw the performance of pantomime artists, Jack and Graciela Hill, at Paltz last fall, will want to see their new performance. Anyone who missed them will want to take this opportunity to enjoy their talents — talents which caused SHOW BUSINESS to comment: "a thoroughly enjoyable program . . . demonstrating, again and again, their extreme versatility as performers."

The premier of their new program, "IT'S ALL IN YOUR MIME," opens Friday, Feb. 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the McKenna Theatre. There will also be matinee performances on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 27 and 28 at 2 p.m. on the campus stage. Special group rates of $1 per student are being offered by the college's Department of Theatre Arts for the matinees.

In addition to skills learned working with Marcel Marceau, the great French pantomime artist, in Paris, the Hills are inventive and distinctive performers in their own right. Adults and youngsters alike will delight in their Feb. 26, 27 and 28 performances, where audiences are guaranteed an exciting program. For further information and reservations, call (914) 257-2192.
